

Rebel Chiefs in Argentina Held By Government

Two Former Presidents Arrested as Revolution Fails

HELD ON WARSHIP

Congress Asked to Proclaim 30-Day State of Siege

Buenos Aires.—(P)—Two former presidents and hundreds of other political leaders are prisoners today as Argentina's 10-month-old constitutional government asked congress to declare a state of siege for 30 days.

Such action was sought in order that rigorous measures might be taken to avert the overthrow of President Augustin P. Justo by the party ousted in the 1930 revolution.

Hipolito Yrigoyen, president from 1916 to 1922 and from 1928 to 1930, was imprisoned again on Martin Garcia island, in the mouth of the Uruguay river, Marcelo T. De Alvear, president from 1922 to 1928; Honorio Pueyrredon, former ambassador to the United States, and other radical chieftains were detained on the warship Veinticinco de Mayo in the outer harbor.

HIPOOLITO YRIGOYEN

A succession of bomb seizures last night was climaxed by the arrest of the retired Lieut. Col. Attilio Cattaneo and his confession of leadership in a nationwide subversive plot. With lightning speed, the government imprisoned every outstanding radical.

An accidental explosion revealed a store of 1,000 bombs in Flores, a suburb. Occupants of the house fled but a list of names were found and the names of the bombs.

The vessel Golondrina, bearing Dr. Yrigoyen, departed for Martin Garcia and the Veinticinco de Mayo, which was scheduled to make a two months' cruise, left the inner harbor with its hostages at 2 a. m.

Troops Help Police

The government, after summoning troops, confidently awaited reactions and declared the revolt ended. The state of siege was established virtually last night, with army detachments assisting police patrols.

An attempted demonstration by radicals in the Avenida de Mayo, the city's principal boulevard leading to the government buildings, was dispersed last night by mounted and foot police.

A government declaration said the conspiracy included plans to kill high officials. Another version was that President Justo, inaugurated last February to succeed provisional President Jose Uriburu, was to have been kidnapped.

Police closed the national committee headquarters of the radical party and also the offices of the Tribuna Libre, the party's official organ. The state of siege was established in the interior as well as the capital were involved and appealed to the people to remain tranquil.

When officers went to arrest the aged ex-president Yrigoyen, he said: "I am president—you cannot take me from my home."

President Justo said: "The administration asks the country to keep calm and it is confident that public order will be maintained."

The alleged plot to kidnap the president was outlined in documents said to have been confiscated at the Cattaneo home. They mentioned the veterans' legion, "Italo-Belgium brigade."

Government Deficit Again Shows Increase

Washington.—(P)—The government increased its deficit for the fiscal year to $1,142,473,015 on Dec. 15 placing $418,794,000 in the sinking fund for public debt retirement.

On that date the government had collected from all sources $878,693,402 and had spent $2,019,166,417. Secretary Mellon in his annual report to congress estimated that the present fiscal year would end in June with a deficit of $1,644,344,757, if the payment to the sinking fund was made.

By Dec. 15 last year the deficit was $1,232,631,150. By the end of the fiscal year the government was nearly $3,000,000,000 in the red.

Jury Findings Are Sealed in Tayler Trial

Verdict Not to Be Announced in Federal Court Until Monday

OUT THREE HOURS

Green Bay Banker to Learn Fate on Seven Counts Against Him

Milwaukee.—(P)—The fate of Joseph T. Tayler, 73, Green Bay banker, is determined and sealed, but he will not know it until 2 p. m. Monday.

A federal court jury which heard the charges that he violated banking laws before the failure of the McCartney National bank at Green Bay reached its decision, after three hours of deliberation, at 8:15 p. m. yesterday. Jurors were instructed by Judge F. A. Geiger to seal it, and their finding will be announced in court Monday. Judge Geiger was attending court business at Madison today.

Tayler, 50 years a banker, 20 years president of the Green Bay institution and later chairman of its board, admitted some of the accusations of the indictment. The acknowledged that he credited sums to his own account before ascertaining whether his personal notes covering them were accepted by other banks to which he sent them. But he insisted that the practice was merely his personal method of doing business, and that there was no intent to defraud. He asserted that for years other banks accepted his notes without question, and that there would have been no difficulty if the general tightening of financial conditions had not occurred.

McGillan in Plea

A dramatic plea in Tayler's behalf was made by his attorney, James H. McGillan. He pictured Tayler as a man who had dedicated his life to his bank and his city.

"We don't deny," McGillan told jurors, "that these transactions may not have been according to the letter of the law, but they have been practiced in many banks since time immemorial. In brief, they were Tayler's method of renewing obligations with no intent to defraud or deceive."

"When a bank fails there is a tendency to make someone the goat; to throw a victim to the lions, and that is Mr. Tayler's position now."

"He is an old man and soon he will face a judge who will not look at ledgers and deposit slips, but will look into his heart and say, 'No, Joe Tayler didn't mean to do that.'"

In rebuttal James A. Wharton, special prosecutor, said the defense was appealing to sentiment rather than looking at facts.

"Most people don't intend to defraud a bank of $100,000; they intend to take $100,000, make it grow to $200,000 and replace the $100,000 so no one will be the wiser," Wharton said. "But sometimes it isn't successful."

"Tayler knew he was doing wrong in placing worthless pieces of paper in the bank to cover his overdrafts. If they've been doing that for years it's time to call a halt on that sort of banking practice. It is not honest to the depositors and stockholders. Tayler had no right to use that money until he was assured his notes would be accepted."

There are seven counts in the indictment against Tayler, the last accusing him of making false reports to the comptroller of currency. Maximum penalties are a fine of $5,000 and five years imprisonment on each of the counts.

Chain Gang Fugitive Wanted in New York

New York.—(P)—Police disclosed today that Robert Elliott Burns, held in New Jersey as a fugitive from justice from a Georgia chain gang, is wanted here on a charge of forgery dating back to 1922.

Should efforts of the Georgia authorities to extradite him prove unsuccessful, New York police plan to attempt to have him returned to New York to answer the charge.

Inspector Joseph Donovan, in charge of the criminal identification bureau of the police department, said police records show Burns was arrested here Jan. 10, 1922, charged with forging a $300 check on Piersen's Magazine, 81 Fifth-ave. He was released in $500 bail and when the case was called before the then Judge Thomas C. Crain in general sessions court Jan. 24, 1922, he failed to appear and the bail was declared forfeited.

Turn on Lights Tonight In New Ice Cathedral

Myriad of Colored Lights Will Illuminate Unusual Structure

Hundreds of people are expected to visit E. College-ave tonight to see Appleton's ice cathedral, which will be illuminated by a myriad of colored lights. The lights will be turned on for the first time this evening. The building was constructed by the Appleton Post-Crescent in cooperation with a number of manufacturing and business firms.

Workmen today were busily putting the final touches on the building and completing the electrical connections. The walls of crystal pure ice are expected to add to the brightness and brilliance of the colored illumination.

Approximately 40 tons of ice, manufactured by the Lutz Ice company, were required to complete the structure. Work was delayed for some time because of the extremely cold weather which made the blocks too brittle to handle with facility. The delivered blocks of ice were 59 inches long and about 21 inches thick. These were cut on the grounds to fit the various needs of the structure as a whole. The building is about 20 feet long and 14 feet wide, surmounted by a spire on top of which will blaze a neon gas star set up by the Tri-Neon Sign Co.

Construction of the building was under direction of Edward Bass. The building is constructed in Gothic cathedral style with a roof of evergreen boughs. The doors and other woodwork in the spire were furnished by the Lothar Graef Construction company. The cathedral style doors are colored to harmonize with the building.

The electric lighting effects were arranged by the Art-Killoren Electric company, with the exception of the neon star. Wisconsin Michigan Power company employees set up the service lines to the building.

Blending of colors inside and out of the building will have the same effect as if the structure was made entirely of stained glass.

During the time the building was under construction hundreds of motorists stopped daily to watch the activities. As the structure took form it was readily noticeable as the sunlight played on the blocks of crystal ice.

Lawrence college campus was selected as the site for the cathedral because of the beauty of the background of trees and the easy access to the site. The building will not be open to the public, as it will contain only the apparatus for lighting from the inside. This ice cathedral is expected to be the only one of its kind in the state this year.

500 Mississippi Families Menaced By Rising Flood

Jackson, Miss.—(P)—Between 400 and 500 families were marooned in the Pearl river flood zone today, their lives threatened by rapidly rising waters of the raging stream. Sub-freezing weather prevailed.

Gov. Mike S. Conner called out the Mississippi National guard, which joined Jackson police in rescue work.

No casualties had been reported this morning but the situation was described "as extremely grave," by Adjutant General Thomas Grayson, in charge of the rescue forces.

The militia commanded a huge barge and mounted engines about it to assist in speeding the removals. Families in virtually every instance were abandoning all furniture and household possessions, leaving them to the ravages of the flood.

Texas Oil Wells Are Ordered Shut Down

Austin.—(P)—The Texas Railroad commission today ordered all wells in the east Texas oil pool to cease production at noon and to remain closed until 7 a. m. on Jan. 1.

The shut down, affecting more than 9,000 oil wells, was described by the commission as necessary to obtain "exact bottom hole pressures and other scientific data" upon which to base orders for the prevention of waste.

It came on the heels of price cuts by purchasers of crude oil in the midcontinent area.

Members of the commission said they planned to prosecute operators who refused to abide by the order. The statute provides a penalty of $1,000 each day a commission order is violated and directs the manner in which properties shall be placed in receivership under the penalty clause.

Washington.—(P)—The senate today refused to return the Hawes-Cutting Philippine independence bill to committee for revision. It voted 54 to 19 against a motion by Senator Vandenberg (R, Mich.), to send the measure back for amendment to provide for the adoption of a constitution by the islands at the end of a 12 year trial period instead of at the beginning, as now provided.

Wants U. S. to Buy Hogs To Aid Jobless, Farmer

Washington.—(P)—Federal purchases of surplus hogs at a cost of from $10,000,000 to $25,000,000, and distribution to the unemployed between price and consumption practices in the sale of hogs, Gregory said. "When the price goes up consumption tends to go down. Therefore we provide that the processing tax out of which the farmer's benefit is to be paid shall be applied gradually."

"Within 30 days after passage of the act, the fee would be 1 cent a pound. It would increase 1 cent a pound every 60 days until it reaches 2 cents. That initial 1 cent, translated into the retail product, would be about 1 cent. We do not think that sufficient to curb consumption very much."

"We believe it necessary to have a drastic reduction in corn acreage in 1933. Therefore we have included a provision to pay the corn grower who would reduce acreage 15 per cent $4 an acre."

"It is our conception that the secretary of agriculture will work with the packers in applying this bill. Whether or not they want the bill, I believe the packers will cooperate."

No Conference To be Called On Debt Issue

U. S. Tells France it Favors Further Individual Discussions

BRITTEN ASKS TAX

Would Affect Defaulting Nations—Paul Boncour Named Premier

Washington.—(P)—The United States has informed France, and given similar indications to other debtor nations, that the administration is willing to continue debt discussions but is opposed to any general conference and can make no offer of revision.

This was the brief outline of the administration's stand given today in an authoritative source while President Hoover and his aides continued to watch the efforts of France to form a government, and to await other developments abroad.

Secretary Mills conferred for more than an hour with the chief executive, but was silent as to the meeting. Secretary Stimson maintained a similar silence at the state department.

It was made clear that the indications given to debtor nations had not been transmitted in the form of any new formal notes, but had been passed on in previously exchanged notes and informal conversations with diplomatic representatives.

Mr. Hoover feels, it was stated, that in the face of the defaults on Dec. 15 debt payments, the attitude of congress against the creation of a commission to review international financial obligations may possibly be relaxed.

No new decision has been made by him, however, as to when his special message to congress will be dispatched. Indication was given that he would withhold it until developments abroad justified its dispatch.

The president feels, it was said, that it would be useless to make no attempts whatsoever to regain part of the defaulted monies. Nevertheless he believes that any negotiations must be between individual nations rather than by group action.

Woman Kills Her Mate's Secretary

Tells Florida Officials Victim "Tried to Break Up My Home"

Jacksonville, Fla.—(P)—Mrs. C. R. Frazier, wife of the district director of narcotic law enforcement in Florida and Georgia, shot and killed her husband's secretary, Miss Manona Murrell, on the postoffice lawn here yesterday and told officers the young woman "tried to break up my home."

Mrs. Frazier, mother of five sons ranging in age from 4 to 19 years, was held on a murder charge. The 41-year-old mother told authorities of the 26-year-old secretary, "I hope she is dead. She tried to break up my home. If I hadn't killed her my two oldest sons were going to."

Meeting the younger woman as she left the narcotic agent's office after the day's work, Mrs. Frazier told officers she said "how do you do" in replying to a greeting from Miss Murrell, then fired five bullets into her body.

Police said Mrs. Frazier told them she and her husband had not lived together since last April.

Miss Murrell had been employed in Frazier's office three years. Some time ago she competed in a beauty contest for the selection of "Miss Federal Employee" in Jacksonville. She had been married, but her maiden name was restored with her divorce.

Upholds Revocation Of Broker's License

Madison.—(P)—The action of the Wisconsin Real Estate board in revoking the brokerage license of the Kesselman Agency, Inc., operating in Milwaukee, Kenosha, Green Bay, Appleton, Fond du Lac and Oshkosh was upheld today by Circuit Judge A. G. Zimmerman.

The firm's 1932 license was revoked last Aug. 3 on charges that it used unethical methods and high-pressure practices in the sale of lots in a sub-division outside the limits of the city of Milwaukee.

The company, upon an application for a writ of certiorari sought to have Judge Zimmerman set the revocation aside but the court found that the real estate board's action was warranted and refused to intervene.

Man at Manitowoc to Face Deportation Move

Manitowoc.—(P)—Gustave Schmidt, 39, sent another man to the postoffice here for a letter containing a check, but that did not prevent his arrest by local authorities for government immigration agents who want to deport him to Germany.

William Metcher, who appeared at the postoffice, was forced to lead police to Schmidt in a railway yards hide-out. Schmidt was in custody today pending an investigation of the claim that he lost union cards and his birth certificate.

Girl Witness Is Accused of Plot Against Gelosi

Defense Charges She's Member of Defendant's Enemy Gang

DETAILS SLAYING

Lawyer and Judge Engage in Verbal Tilt In Courtroom

Madison.—(P)—Sandra Livingston, 21-year-old Milwaukee girl who is the state's "star" witness in the trial of Joe Gelosi, Elmhurst, N. Y., charged with being an accessory to the killing of Andrew Presti, Madison was charged today by the defense with being a member of a gang which seeks to convict the defendant.

"This girl belongs to a certain gang and has been planted at this trial," Darrel D. MacIntyre, chief defense counsel, declared during a verbal tilt with Circuit Judge A. C. Hoppmann. "She has been traveling with a gang since she was 15 and we are going to show that a gang has brought this man into trouble."

The state turned its main testimony over to the defense for cross-examination shortly after the opening of the court session. During the direct examination she added details to her story of yesterday concerning the killing of Presti in an automobile here July 5 and the abandonment of his body on a road near Belvidere, Ill. She said Gelosi was the "boss" to whom the body was delivered.

Rode In Death Car

After the slaying, the two men whom she accompanied in the death car drove to Janesville where they were joined by Gelosi, Miss Livingston testified. She said the men picked up a cement block enroute to Janesville with the intention of using it to weigh the body if they found an opportunity to dispose of it in some lake or stream.

The defense counsel and Judge Hoppmann engaged in several pointed remarks when the cross-examination started. Attorney MacIntyre sought to have the witness give the names of her neighbors, teachers and fellow students while a resident of Memphis, Tenn, her birthplace, but the judges sustained objections by the prosecuting attorney who termed the questions irrelevant.

At this point Attorney MacIntyre said the witness "Goes" dare to give any particular reference to her early life because she has been "traveling with a gang." Under cross-examination she testified that she married at 15 and was later divorced. She said she worked at a Milwaukee roadhouse until June 25, 1932, when she came to Madison and worked in a beer flat. At the time she testified that she met Frank Delmonti and Joseph Ross, the men who she testified were in the car with her the night Presti was lured from her home.

Miss Livingston, in her direct testimony yesterday named Delmonti as the one who fired the shots that killed Presti.

Approaches to Bridge Wrecked in Illinois

Taylorville, Ill.—(P)—Both approaches to a bridge spanning a creek on the Chicago and Illinois Midland railway between Sicily and Pawnee, were blown up early today, the sheriff's office reported.

The line is the main outlet for coal from Christian-co, scene of recent violence between opposing factions of coal diggers.

Special deputies have been guarding the bridge for some time, but none of them reports received here said, was in the vicinity when the explosions occurred. Dynamite was presumably used.

Reports Findings In McCauley Case

Governor Told Prisoner Wasn't Intoxicated at Time of Killing

Madison.—(P)—Attorney Harry Southoff of Madison, appointed by Governor LaFollette to make an investigation in the application of Donald McCauley for a pardon reported today that McCauley was not intoxicated and acted without justification when he shot Arthur E. Milles of Milwaukee to death on a road outside of Kenosha May 1, 1931.

McCauley, who was sentenced last January to a term of 5 to 7 years for first degree manslaughter maintained in his request for a pardon that he was drunk and did not know what he was doing when Milles was shot.

Southoff was appointed to investigate this claim and also to ascertain whether Katherine Lenzen of Niles, Ill., who was with McCauley when the shooting occurred had been coerced into making incriminating statements against him. Southoff reported that the Lenzen woman had not been intimidated by police and had repudiated an affidavit saying she had been.

The killing was the result of a traffic controversy on the highway. Milles and his wife were returning to their home at Milwaukee after attending a funeral. McCauley, a lake sailor, was driving from Niles, Ill., to Kenosha with the Lenzen woman and another man.

Veterans Invite German Who Sank Their Troop Ship

Chicago.—(P)—Here's proof the spirit of Christmas is in the air. Veterans of the American troop ship Tuscania, sunk about 15 years ago off the Irish coast by a German submarine have invited the U-boat's captain to attend their annual reunion in Chicago on Feb. 4.

The captain is Wilhelm Meyer of Saarbrücken, Germany, and the German ambassador is reported to be helping him finance the trip to Chicago.

The invitation went out from Arnold Joerns, Chicago, president of the Tuscania Survivors' association. When the Tuscania went down 225 lives were lost. Joerns said approximately 1,930 survivors were expected here for the meeting.

"Any personal animosity toward the captain has disappeared," Joerns said. "We survivors realize that Capt. Meyer did his duty."

Special Session Will Be Called in Michigan

Lansing, Mich.—(P)—Governor Brucker announced today he would call a special session of the legislature to convene Dec. 27 to consider legislation affecting Detroit finances. Municipal and industrial leaders of Detroit urged the session to obtain authorization to sell $20,000,000 worth of tax anticipation warrants to meet maturing obligations.

Man at Manitowoc to Face Deportation Move

Manitowoc.—(P)—Gustave Schmidt, 39, sent another man to the postoffice here for a letter containing a check, but that did not prevent his arrest by local authorities for government immigration agents who want to deport him to Germany.

Hits Subsidy For Building Up Poor Land

Conservation—Official Thinks Efforts Will be Wasted in Few Years

Madison—(P)—A warning against the practice of governmental subsidizing of submarginal farm lands to provide a haven for the unemployed of the cities was sounded last night by R. B. Goodman of Marietta, member of the state conservation commission in a speech before short course students at the college of agriculture.

Mr. Goodman said there is too much land under cultivation now and that the law of supply and demand would bring about an abandonment of the poorer lands for agricultural production except for the fact that the federal and state governments are still subsidizing land settlement.

"A city in lower Michigan is colonizing unemployed on state lands in the northern part of the peninsula," he said. "The lands were obtained from the conservation department for a surveying fee of 10 cents per acre, paid by the city. The lands will be exempt from local taxation for about five years. The colonists have no horses or farm implements and when their city ceases to be concerned about them, the town in which they have settled will have to support them, build roads for their convenience and schools for their children."

"This is an example of misguided city humanitarianism, for which land use policies of the days of the advancing frontier are responsible. If it were a unique undertaking, it would not be important but all over the central west enterprises of this sort are developing."

"In our closer economic interdependence every enterprise, however small is in economic competition with every other enterprise places a burden on the rest of the community. Nowhere in our social fabric is this more apparent than in agriculture."

Duffy Leaves for New York to Talk With Roosevelt

Democratic Senator - Elect Has Big Time in Washington

BY RUBY A. BLACK (Post-Crescent Washington Correspondent)

Washington—Senator-elect F. Ryan Duffy of Fond du Lac left Washington Friday night for New York to confer with President-elect Franklin D. Roosevelt, National Democratic Chairman James Farley, and Nebraska National Committeeman, Arthur Mullen, mentioned as a possible attorney general in the new administration.

The Democratic senator-elect had a big time in Washington, going places and meeting people. Sen. Robert M. LaFollette, who supported him in the election, Sen. John J. Blaine, whom he will succeed next March 4, and Rep. Michael K. Reilly, Fond du Lac Democrat, took him on the floors of the Senate and the House of Representatives, and in general made things pleasant for him.

Since he and Mrs. Duffy are bringing their four children along, he is already looking for a house, and Mrs. Duffy and the children probably will spend next summer in their Lake Winnebago cottage and not come to Washington until fall.

No Final Decision

Duffy said he had made no decision either upon a nominee for the western district federal judgeship, to succeed the late Judge Claude V. Luse, or on the eastern district attorney, to succeed Levi H. Bancroft, resigned, and the recess appointee, Edward G. Hartford, who will hold the job until March 4.

Among the suggested candidates for the judgeship, Duffy said, are William Ryan of Madison, who was nominated for the same post by President Wilson in 1920, and was not confirmed, just as the Senate is not yet confirming Republican nominees, Milton Riley of Madison; Pat Stone of Wausau; John Boyle of Darlington, who was the Democratic nominee for Congress in the third district; J. R. Pfiffner, Jr., of Stevens Point; and F. J. Smith of Merrill.

Among those mentioned for United States attorney in the eastern district, Duffy said, are B. J. Huston of Mayville, brother of the late Sen. Paul C. Huston, who was the last Democratic senator from Wisconsin until 1917, when he was accidentally killed while hunting; and A. Matt Werner of Sheboygan.

Duffy told of the vast number of job-seekers that he had warned job-seekers that any body who followed him to Northern Wisconsin, where he went hunting and fishing after election, would not receive the job for which he applied.

He expects to return about 10 days before he is to be sworn in, on March 4, to continue house-bunting.

As a result of this trip around governmental buildings and looking for a home in Washington, he feels that the government should furnish a guide to new senators and congressmen.

Hits Finger With Axe; Amputation Necessary

Mrs. Josephine Morawek, 51, 928 W. Lawrence st., suffered the loss of the middle finger of her right hand as the result of an accident at her home about 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon. Mrs. Morawek was chopping wood in the basement when the axe slipped and struck her finger, badly smashing it. She called at a doctor's office and was removed to the hospital where it was found necessary to amputate the member.

Dr. Uts Reports on Program of Committee

A report on activities of the forum committee was given by Dr. Lytle D. Uts, chairman, at the bi-monthly meeting of the board of directors at Hotel Appleton Friday afternoon. Other reports of division and committee heads also were heard.

Holiday Liquor Prices Much Lower This Year

Holiday liquor prices in Appleton are lower this year than at any time since prohibition went into effect. Bootleggers blame the depression for the drop.

"I haven't got 10 customers who still insist on buying real, bonded liquor at from $50 to $75 per case," one bootlegger moaned. "There was a time when I could figure on selling anywhere from 50 to 100 cases during the holiday season, but the best I can do now is to sell a few individual bottles here and there. Practically all of my customers either buy 'aged moonshine' or 'alky'."

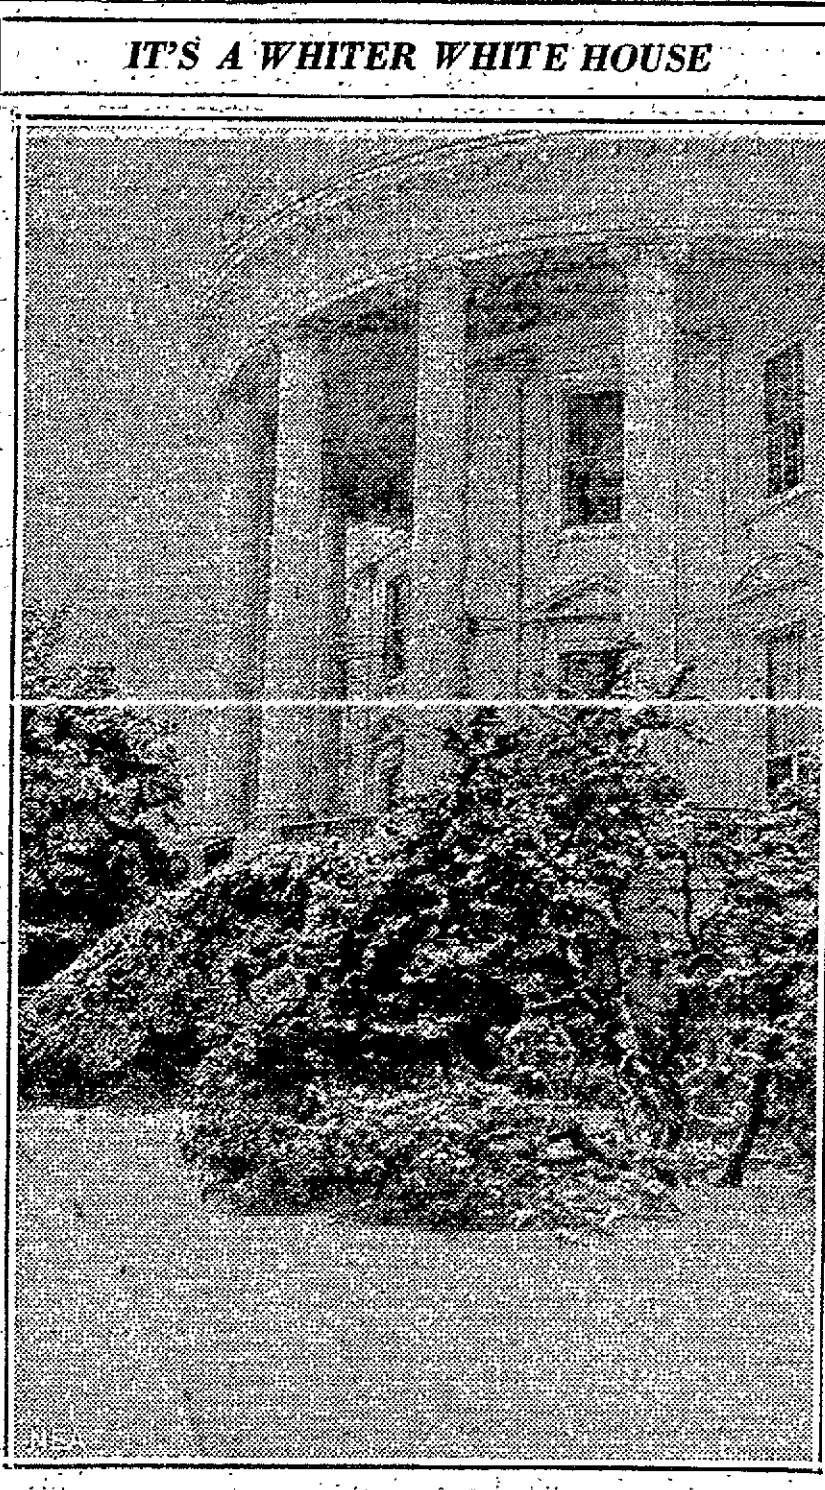

He explained that "alky" or alcohol has grown tremendously in popularity during the last two years. "Alcohol" can now be purchased at from $3.50 to $5 per gallon. Purchasers then usually secure the necessary ingredients to manufacture synthetic gin and the finished product costs 25 to 40 cents per pint. Some buyers of alcohol, who don't care for gin, color the liquor with a brown sugar mixture, thus providing what might be termed synthetic whiskey.

Want Cheap "Stuff"

"Go ahead and repeal prohibition," one seller of the contraband exclaimed. "Do you think you won't make any difference. You won't catch many guys going to your government stores to pay from $2 to $4 a pint for whisky—even if it is genuine. Drinkers today are used to the kind of gin and 'brown alky' that can be purchased cheaply. It will take a long time to educate them to the use of the real stuff."

While the largest liquor sales this year probably will be alcohol in gallon lots, nevertheless many "soft" drink parlors are stocking up stocks of bottled whiskey to sell by the pint. These bottles appear to be "regular," but it is common knowledge, both to the seller and the purchaser, that the contents are nothing more than aged moonshine or colored alcohol and the pretty but official looking wrappings and seals are really manufactured illicitly for the bootleggers who specialize in such trade. This type of bottled goods usually retails from $1 to $2.50 per pint.

Beer prices, both by the barrel and the bottle in case lots, are now for some time. Some soft drink parlors serve a glass of beer at the counter for 10 cents; and a few places even provide free lunches. Bottle beer costs 15 cents per bottle and in case lots of 24 it can be purchased for as low as $2.

All dressed up in its winter gown of white was the nation's Executive Mansion when this striking photograph was taken the other day. Here you see the rear approach to the White House—the grounds and shrubbery mantled with snow after the capital's first taste of real winter weather.

Today and Tomorrow

BY WALTER LIPPMANN

A Desirable Measure

Governor Roosevelt has asked the special session of the New York Legislature to give the Governor authority to appoint financial agents, who would have power to approve or veto all expenditures of money by a county, a town, a city, a village, or a special district where there is danger of default. The proposal is copied from Massachusetts where a law of this kind is already in effect.

The first reports from Albany indicate that both parties are opposed to his suggestion. That was to be expected. The office-holding class as a body, plus the interests who profit directly from government waste and extravagance, would naturally object to a measure which gives the Governor so much power over local expenditure. They will find some support among those who wish at almost any cost to maintain the ideal of home rule.

There is, however, no political ideal which is absolute under all possible conditions. The most confirmed believer in states' rights, for example, would not question the right of the Federal power to uphold a republican form of government in the states or to suppress insurrection. The most complete home ruler would not deny that the state has the power to insist on the preservation of order in the cities. The question then is whether in these extraordinary times the state should have the power to protect the credit of its local units.

For these are extraordinary times. A large number of government bodies of all kinds have, as Governor Roosevelt points out, spent and borrowed too much money. For them the day of reckoning is at hand. They must either reduce their expenditures or go into bankruptcy. To go into bankruptcy means not only to default on their securities, but to lose their credit and become paralyzed in their efforts to provide relief in the period of the depression.

The task of persuading local politicians to reduce expenditures in an extraordinarily difficult one. The City of New York, for example, had to be brought within half an hour of default before the local politicians were willing to budge. The city had to be threatened by the bankers. Can the most fervent believer in home rule resist that? As between reform by ultimatum of the bankers and reform by order of the constituted authority of the State of New York, I greatly prefer compulsion by the state. It is more dignified. It is ever more or less objectionable.

Now the fact is that in many localities the political machine is so entrenched, so shortsighted, and so selfish that only compulsion from the outside can move it properly. Where the credit of the locality is impaired, and the citizens are too impotent or too indifferent to take the necessary steps to preserve it, the choice comes down in practice to being reformed by the bankers acting for the investment market and to being reformed by the state in some such manner as Governor Roosevelt has suggested.

It is idle to talk about home rule under these conditions. As things are now, local governments which are in trouble and will not apply the necessary remedies have in fact ceased to govern themselves. Yet no regular machinery of law exists by which their affairs can be set in order. As a result, policies of the greatest importance, policies affecting wages and salaries, the social services and public works, are determined in the last analysis by the bankers conferring with the bosses. It is not a good system; necessary as it may have been in the crisis confronting New York City.

Governor Roosevelt's proposal offers a better way to deal with these matters in the future. And as the future undoubtedly holds the prospect that vast reforms of local government will be urgent and necessary, it is the part of wisdom to establish an agency of the state, in the first instance as a warning to all localities, but capable when needed of dealing with a situation which has become critical in a manner that is open, orderly and according to law.

Appleton Girl Hurt When Cars Collide

Miss Helen Pivonka, 1324 W. Second st., suffered a broken left collar bone about 1:30 yesterday afternoon when the car in which she was riding and another machine collided at the corner of N. Appleton and W. Pacific sts. Miss Pivonka was taken to a doctor's office for treatment and then removed to her home. The girl was riding with Mrs. A. L. Zaig, New London, whose car was going south on Appleton st., and Floyd Lesselyong, 509 E. McKinley st., was driving east on Pacific st. when the two cars collided. The front end of Mrs. Zaig's machine was damaged, as was the left side of the Lesselyong car.

State Workers Form Union to Protect Jobs

Group Plans to Fight Large Pay Cuts, Dismissal Of Old Employees

Milwaukee—(P)—Formation of a union of state employees, a group which intends to fight large pay cuts and to prevent new department heads from turning out "old and faithful workers," was described at the closing meeting of state oil inspectors here yesterday.

Purposes of the union, which is to be affiliated with the American Federation of Labor, were disclosed by A. E. Garey, veteran LaFollette leader and director of the bureau of personnel. Many inspectors joined, paying an initiation fee of $2.50. The days when state employees were every time legislators roared are, over, several supporters of the union said. The new body will represent all workers and proposes to win the respect of the law makers and elective officials.

A. L. Zander, examiner in the bureau of personnel, will soon devote half his time to work as financial secretary of the union, Garey said. Membership already approximates 1,000, he added. Governor-elect A. G. Schmiedeman is in sympathy with the plan to create a union, he asserted.

One of the objects of the union, Garey continued, will be to establish a retirement fund for all state workers similar to that now operated for teachers.

Carey took issue with the uncomplimentary things taxpayers are saying about state workers. They are a conscientious lot working hard for modest remuneration, he said.

"We should not take a position against any salary reduction," he added. "But cuts should be only a temporary basis so that it won't take an act of the legislature to get our old salaries back."

Ask Payment of Indian Claims

Bill Offered to Help Descendants of Non-Combatants in Custer Battle

Washington—(P)—The warwhop is still and the fighters gone but the Indian wars in the 70's which spelled the death of Custer and his men aren't all exactly history.

The interior department has sent to the house a copy of a proposed bill to pay $19,357 to descendants of non-combatant Sioux who lost their lives and in some cases their property, as the aroused whites chased Sitting Bull and his braves.

The money would go to Indians living for the most part on the Pine Ridge, Standing Rock and Rosebud Indian agencies in South Dakota.

In prosaic language, the report accompanying the proposed legislation told how Henry Bull-Head, Take a Hat, Flying Horse and many others happened to meet troops and confederates at the wrong place, Flying Horse and quite a few of his tribal kinsmen were killed in a long series of clashes during that Indian's last stand against the whites.

Most of the claims for damages were for horses taken by troops or settlers. Every Indian outbreak resulted in new claims, for the sturdy westerners seemed unable to distinguish between a good or bad Indian those days. The report said thousands of the long pending claims had been examined and discarded.

In addition, the interior department asked cancellation of $870,000 due from tribes in Arizona, New Mexico, California, Oregon, Utah, Wisconsin, and Wyoming. This report said the money was deductible from tribal funds but it was for roads and bridges from which the whites got most of the benefits.

82 Cases of Disease Reported in County

Eighty-two cases of contagious diseases were reported from Outagamie county in the week ending Dec. 12, according to a report received by Miss Marie Klein, county nurse, from the state board of health. Seventy of the cases were reported from Appleton as follows: measles, 44; chicken pox, 24; diphtheria, one; and erysipelas, one. Ten cases of chicken pox were reported from Ellington, one from Bovina, and a case of measles from Kaukauna.

Yuletide Originated in Ancient Icelandic Days

Chicago—(P)—What does all this Yuletide business mean? It goes back a long time and it depends upon who and what you are, a reporter who set out upon a tour of investigation discovered.

"Yule means the period of great shopping," said the merchant.

"Yule brings crowded streets and traffic tie-ups and stalled autos," said the policeman.

The small boy said it meant Santa Claus to him while the minister reflected in the spiritual significance of the Yuletide season.

But it remained for history to produce original meanings. To the old Icelandic Yule meant wheel and it referred to the sun wheeling on its winter solstice. The Icelandic word was Hjol.

The English used the word yawl to denote the noise and Christmas reverly in Scandinavian countries. And so on down through history until Yule and Christmas have become almost synonymous.

As for Christmas itself the argument as to its date was not settled until comparatively recent years.

OUT OF DOORS In Outagamie County

By Alfred S. Bradford

It was bitterly cold. A pale sun gleamed from a steel sky. The north wind swept across the open fields like a charge of mailed horse, bearing spears of ice and shooting arrows of flying snow. It tore at our clothing, laid hands of frost upon our ankles, brought tears of pain into our eyes.

Suddenly, the cold moderated. The wind ceased. We had gained the shelter of the cedars.

A cedar swamp in winter! Quiet and peace below, above the moon of the wind thru the tree tops. Snow, unsoiled by soot or dust, dazzling in its white purity. The aromatic odor of the arbor vitae. The vivid reds and yellows of the willows in the more open places. The crimson berries of an occasional elder, more striking amid the white of the snow and the green of the cedars, then the most beautifully decorated of Christmas trees.

Here life had sought refuge against the blasts of winter, safe in the possession of the twin necessities of existence, food and shelter. Out of the wind swept fields no living creature moved, all was barren desolation. Here, the first step we made brought an inquisitive chickadee. A tiny mite scarcely bigger than my thumb, yet with such a furnace of energy burning within him that he laughed at the cold. A few yards farther, and a white breasted nuthatch ran cheerily head first down a tree trunk, cocked a beady black eye at us, and flew off in the slow, dipping manner of his tribe. Blue jays, a purple finch, ruffed grouse that exploded into the air like miniature hand grenades completed the picture.

Yet do not believe, tho I set down bird and track, the impression produced upon us there in the swamp for some time after the coming of other things. The footprints were all over the snow. The birds appeared singly and a long interval. Rather we saw only the indication of lifeless. We heard the wind in the tree tops; now far away, like the rush of white water down a rock strewn bed; now near at hand, like the moan of a lost child. And in the hush, silence, broken only by the soft thud of snow falling from the cedars or the sharp, agonized protest of some frost tortured tree.

Union Official Is Guilty in Tax Case

P. J. Commerford Convicted of Violating Federal Law in 1929

New York—(P)—A fight by Patrick J. Commerford, prominent labor leader, to upset his conviction of attempting to evade the income tax laws in 1929, was forecast today. Commerford, who is vice president of the New York State Federation of Labor, was convicted by a jury which deliberated six hours and reported late last night. The maximum penalties are six years in federal penitentiary and $11,000 fines.

The jury acquitted Commerford of perjury in connection with his 1930 income tax return, but it failed to agree on two charges of tax fraud in 1929 and 1931.

United States Attorney George Z. Medall charged that Commerford had been on the payrolls of non-union hoisting companies. He said that in 1929, a year for which Commerford filed no tax return, the defendant received $3,900 from one hoisting company and $1,500 from another, besides $150 a week from his local.

The treasurer of one company testified his concern paid Commerford, through another man, because "it was necessary to have some one explain to the union that it was the custom of his company to employ non-union men."

Commerford denied the payments were for any service rendered by him other than "speaking a good word" for the companies.

Copyright Hearings are Exhausting to Sirovich

Washington—(P)—Two words, "copyright," and "hearings," bring a feeling of exhaustion to Representative William Irving Sirovich of New York, even if it is early morning and he has had a good night's rest.

Sirovich—physician, playwright and foe of the dramatic critic—is chairman of the house patents committee, and handles copyright legislation, and well let him tell it.

"Look," he said, pointing to four fat red bound volumes on a desk beside him.

"Those are the printed hearings on the so-called copyright bill last year. They began in January and did not end until congress was almost through. Six months and more. Authors testified. So did composers, publishers, motion picture exhibitors, newspaper publishers, record companies, actresses too and a lot of other people."

"I lambasted hypercritical dramatic critics who ruin productions by their sneers. I got one good poke by them. They've been hammering at me ever since. The critic business was a minor episode of a long period of grueling work. Well, I never worked so hard before and I never expect to work so hard again."

"Hearings day in and day out. I argued copyrights in my sleep. Well, I thought we were through and ready for passage of the bill. Then somebody complained they had not been heard. Back for more sessions."

"We got the bill to the floor the house. What happened. Somebody complained that so and so hadn't been heard."

Dr. Sirovich made a gesture of utter weariness.

"I've been sick since. We need a new copyright bill to protect authors and other people. But the senate wants to hold some hearings on this subject, I suppose. Let them get busy and listen awhile. Then I'll be ready to start again. But just now the less I hear about hearings and copyrights, the better it will be."

Rivalry Grows Between Major National Parties

Little Evidence of After-The-Battle Sportsmanship at Capital

BY DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington—These are days of silliness, divided councils and frayed nerves. Democrats and Republicans since the last election have externally given the impression of after-the-battle sportsmanship, but actually the feeling of bitterness and rivalry has grown.

The Republicans, including President Hoover, are adopting a policy of what difference does it make and they simply go through the motions of performing the necessary steps in proposing legislation they know will never be adopted. The Democrats are refusing to confirm any presidential appointments, regardless of the fitness of the appointees or the effect upon the individuals, many of whom are not political in their viewpoint at all—but have come to Washington at a personal sacrifice to serve the government in these days of national emergency.

Congress is dawdling along with no definite plan yet in either house for securing the necessary steps in proposing legislation they know will never be adopted. The Democrats are refusing to confirm any presidential appointments, regardless of the fitness of the appointees or the effect upon the individuals, many of whom are not political in their viewpoint at all—but have come to Washington at a personal sacrifice to serve the government in these days of national emergency.

Call Inquest In Death of Waupaca Man

George Anderson, Jr., 21,
Dies From Injuries Received in Crash

A coroner's jury was being drawn at Waupaca this morning to hear testimony in connection with the fatal injury of George Anderson, Jr., 21, who died Friday afternoon at Waupaca from injuries received in an accident about 8 o'clock Thursday night.

Anderson, a graduate of Waupaca high school and the Teacher's college at Stevens Point, was injured when the buggy and team, which he was driving, and a sedan driven by Harold Schroeder, operator of a service station, collided on Highways 54 and 23 just east of the Waupaca city limits.

The young man and his uncle, Chris Oyen, were driving home from Waupaca and Schroeder, who was going in the same direction, ran into the back of the buggy. Schroeder said he did not see the vehicle. Anderson, whose skull was fractured, was taken to Christopher's hospital at Waupaca. Oyen, who was badly shaken up, was taken to his home.

Adam Schider, coroner, who called the inquest, said the jury would meet and then adjourn until a later date to hear the testimony of witnesses. The postponement is necessary, he said, because some of the witnesses are ill.

Anderson is survived by his father, George Anderson, Sr., and a brother, LeRoy, of Waupaca. Funeral services will be held at 1 o'clock Sunday afternoon at the Holy Family home, Waupaca, with the Rev. G. Reier in charge. Interment will be in the Lutheran cemetery in the town of Farmington.

PAPER WHEELS for railroad cars were invented by Richard Allen, in 1869. He first tested them out on the Central Vermont railroad, and they were put into use on other roads soon afterward. The wheels had the advantage over solid iron wheels in cheapness, increased elasticity, and lessened susceptibility to extreme cold. They were made of many sheets of paper, coated with flour paste and compressed under enormous pressure. An iron hub and tire were used.

GUY LOMBARDO TAKES ADVANCE PEEP AT NEW DODGE SIX

New York, N. Y.—Guy Lombardo, personable leader of one of America's most famous dance orchestras, and musical idol of the younger set, deserted his baton today for an advance showing of the new Dodge Six.

"It's a hit!" was the enthusiastic comment of the rhythm king afterwards. And since Mr. Lombardo has been responsible for some of the biggest hits in the song world, his statement may be considered prophetic.

"The new Dodge Six will click with everybody who wants a smart, youthful car that is sporty and smooth. And it's so peppy! It has the zip and go of a snappy fox-trot, combined with the gliding ease of a dreamy waltz. It has everything the public wants—good looks, impressive power, flashing speed and brilliant performance. And when you add to that the amazing value represented by this great car you've got a combination that will take the country by storm."

Although details of the new car have not yet been officially released by the Dodge organization, it is known that Dodge is ready to spring a real surprise when the new car is formally presented to the public. Scouts Repair Toys for Needy Children in City

Three-legged horses, pop-eyed dolls, head-less elephants, and leg-less chairs are being transformed into brand new toys for the needy youngsters of Appleton by scouts of Troop 11 at McKinley junior high school. Over three large boxes of broken toys have been collected from homes and stores by the boys, and are being repaired and repainted for distribution at Christmas time.

In the workshop at McKinley school the boys put new wheels on wagons, heads on horses, dogs and cats, arms on dolls, new springs in games, and do the hundred and one other things that change a toy from a rubbish can prospect to a Christmas present. The boys have been working nights for several weeks, and next week will work two nights, Tuesday night under the direction of Walter T. Fox, scoutmaster, and Wednesday night with Donald T. Bowker, assistant.

Some of the toys will be distributed to homes by the boys, but most of them will be turned over to the Salvation Army for the annual Christmas party. There are about 20 scouts in the four patrols of Troop 11.

Musical Program At Assembly Period

A musical program was presented at the Roosevelt junior high The Misses Ruth Orblson and Ramona Ecker, accompanied at the piano by Miss Ruth Ritter, played violin solos, and the Roosevelt junior high school orchestra presented several selections.

A Christmas program, to be followed by classroom Christmas parties, will be held next Friday.

Relief Aid to Start Monday, Mayor Advised

City Promises to Engage Trained Overseer for Appleton

Upon the assurance of Mayor John Goodland, Jr. that a trained overseer would be added to the Appleton public relief department, the Wisconsin Industrial commission has promised that relief aid for Appleton will start Monday. In a conference with members of the commission at Madison yesterday the mayor arranged the setup for the Appleton department, and mapped out the division of labor in the department.

An experienced overseer, in the eyes of the commission, is a person who has had one or more years of experience as an overseer of investigators. The recommendation of the commission that this overseer be hired from the Milwaukee-co department of public relief brought a protest from the mayor, with the result that the commission members suggested that he attempt to get Miss Beatrice Miller, daughter of John Miller, W. Fifth-st. who has had one year of training in Racine.

Mayor Goodland pointed out that with all the recent unfavorable publicity about the Milwaukee-co department, Appleton residents would be decidedly averse to the appointment of anyone from that department.

To relieve Schweitzer, as soon as the overseer is engaged, the present commissioner of public relief, Joseph E. Schweitzer, will be relieved of much of the detail work in the department, and will be able to spend most of his time in directing the work of the department, negotiating for supplies and holding first interviews with new applicants for aid.

F. A. W. Hammond will be the contact man for the mills, banks, loan companies and insurance agents, will supervise the bookkeeping work, will be in charge of the employment bureau and of the inventory of the commissary department. His contact work will mean checking with the factories the addition of new workers or the dropping from the payroll of old ones. He will keep in close touch with banks in an effort to discover whether persons receiving aid have savings accounts, and with loan companies and insurance men to determine whether they have any visible means of support through these avenues. He also will provide the street department with lists of needy who should be required to work for aid, and if they fail to, it will be his duty to discover the reason.

Keeps Records
Miss Gladys Stolt, executive secretary of the Appleton Welfare and Relief society, will concentrate, as she does now, on the records for the relief society, her only connection with the city department being that work which will avoid duplication in the aid given by the two groups. Miss Ruth McCanna will do all the bookkeeping for the city relief department.

The work of Miss Maude Priest, who has been an investigator for the past six months and of the three new investigators who will start Monday, Mrs. Clara Fumming, Miss Kathleen Cooney and Miss Mary Schenck, will be undetermined until an overseer has been engaged. There still are a large number of cases on the list that must have complete initial investigations, and starting Monday each family on the list will be visited twice a week by an investigator, but just how this work will be divided between the four investigators has not yet been determined.

Award Chlorine, Alum Contracts

Water Commission Also Seeks Bids on 10,000 Feet Copper Pipe

Contract for furnishing the city pumping station and filtration plant here with alum next year was awarded to the Merchants Chemical Co. yesterday afternoon at a meeting of Appleton water commission. The firm submitted the low bid of $1.23 per hundred weight for alum.

The Pennsylvania Salt Manufacturing Co. was awarded the contract for furnishing the plant with liquid chlorine in 1933. The firm offered to furnish the chemical for $8 per 100 pounds. The commission also decided to purchase an air compressor from Edward Bass for $875.

The commission authorized purchase of a spade, buster, air hose and stone points from the Hunter Machinery Co. These fixtures are to be used with the air compressor.

It also was decided to advertise for bids for 10,000 feet of three-quarter inch copper service tubing in 14 and 20 foot lengths. Bids will be opened at the next meeting of the commission.

Oshkosh Woman Given Divorce in Court Here

Mrs. Martha Curtis, 46, Oshkosh, was granted a divorce by Judge Theodore Berg in municipal court yesterday afternoon from her husband, Harry D. Curtis, 50, Fond du Lac. Mrs. Curtis asked the divorce on the grounds that they had been voluntarily separated over the statutory period. The couple was wed at Oshkosh May 29, 1905, and separated in 1915. They have two children, which are not affected by the decree. The case was not contested.

Tax Alliance Not To Change Stand

and L. A. Lecher, Milwaukee, vice president, all insisted that the alliance must build for the future and that it will accomplish more by merely uncovering the facts with respect to taxation.

Want Separate Body
Members of the Green Lake-co chapter still talked after the one-day meeting had closed of organizing a separate state group whose purpose will be to lead a fight for reduction of state costs with specific recommendations.

Russel Briggs, tax consultant for the U. S. Bureau of Public Roads, in a discussion of the cost of local roads urged that a law be enacted requiring cities and villages to report special assessments for street purposes as part of general street expenditures.

The special assessment privilege can, and in some cases has resulted in grave abuses, he said, because these assessments, although usually financed by city bonds do not show up in the local budgets as expenditures for street work.

Prof. George Wahrwein, university land economist who made a study in Washington-co, said that local government costs could be cut in half in many cases through consolidations and that state aids also could be reduced.

Mayor John Goodland, Jr. and Anton Jansen, president of Little Chute and vice chairman of the Outagamie-co board, attended the meeting of the alliance.

Lions Club Will Hear Mayor John Goodland

Mayor John Goodland, Jr., will speak at the meeting of Appleton Lions club Monday noon at Conway hotel. He will discuss the city's tax problem.

Monday's meeting will be the last until Jan. 9. Because Christmas will be observed Dec. 26, and New Years on Jan. 2, no meetings will be held during the holidays.

W. E. Smith, president of the Appleton club, has been notified of his appointment as deputy district governor by Roman C. Helman, Madison, district governor. Mr. Smith will have charge of clubs in this vicinity.

Select Members on Coed's Debate Squad

Seven new members were selected on the women's debate squad of Lawrence college following the try-outs held at the school this week. The new debaters include Misses Eva Cooley, Joan Andre, Marie Cadman, Katherine Lindsey, Mary Eleanor Wright, Winifred Wiley, and Mary Jane Carpenter. The four members of the squad who debated last year are Misses Alice Balgie, Rose Mary Wiley, Emogene Perschbacher, and Helen Snyder. The debate question is whether a third political party should be organized in the United States. The squad will begin its debate schedule next semester.

Partly cloudy; colder north and west central portions tonight; Sunday fair; somewhat colder east and south portions.

General Weather
Temperatures have been rising sharply over the north central states since yesterday morning due to low pressure which is centered between the Hudson Bay and the Great Lakes this morning. However, minimum of zero or below still occurred last night over Wisconsin, Upper Michigan and sections of Iowa and Illinois. Light snow is falling over Minnesota, northern Wisconsin and the upper lakes due to the disturbance mentioned above, while heavier rain or snow has fallen over the southern states. Temperatures are below freezing this morning along the gulf coast, with snow falling over Georgia, Alabama, Mississippi and Tennessee. Fair weather is expected in this section during the next 24 hours, with somewhat colder Sunday.

Reed Canary Grass Is Recommended as Hay, Silage Crop

Federal Farm Department Bulletin Explains Advantages

By W. F. Winsey
To guard against a repetition of shortages of hay and pastures in some sections of Wisconsin, the department of agriculture, with the assistance of the county agents, has been experimenting with the raising of reed canary grass, and has now reached the point of recommending the cultivation of the grass to Badger farmers. The price of the seed at first was the main objection, and the little that was known about the grass was the other. At the present time the seed is very much reduced in price and county agents and conductors of farmers' institutes are posting farmers on the merits of the grass and on cultural methods.

Reed canary grass is described in farmers' bulletin no. 1602, issued by the U. S. department of agriculture, as follows:

"Reed canary grass is a coarse perennial two to eight feet tall with leafy stems, usually stout enough to prevent lodging, tending to grow in dense bunches two to three feet in diameter and spreading under ground by short creeping branches or rootstocks. The leaves are broad and smooth and of a light green in color.

"The grass grows best where the climate is moist and cool, but it is not sensitive to heat nor cold, growing successfully where winter temperatures drop below zero and where summer temperatures reach 100 degrees.

"Reed canary grass makes its best growth on fertile, moist, or swampy soils, is especially adapted to swampy or overflooded lands of a peaty nature and makes an excellent growth on loams and clays of good fertility.

"Moving overflow is not detrimental to this grass during either the dormant or growing season.

Grows Well
"Although naturally a moist or wet land grass, it makes a very good growth on high, well drained, productive soil if supplied with ample moisture for spring and early-summer growth.

"Four kinds of seed beds are used for reed canary grass on the Pacific slope. These are well-cultivated land, newly slashed land, burned-over land, semi-cultivated land, and uncultivated land.

"The most satisfactory stands are usually obtained on well-cultivated land. Seed bed preparation should be such that the soil is fine, firm, and reasonably free from weeds.

"The next most satisfactory seed bed is brush land or timberland, newly slashed and burned over.

"Both fall and spring seedings are successful on the Pacific coast but in the central and eastern states, it is best to seed in early spring. In general, in most of reed canary grass sections spring seeding is the most satisfactory on cultivated lands. Five to eight pounds of seed to the acre are used by farmers and excellent stands are obtained.

"Fall seedings are nearly always made alone, either with a grass drill or a grass-seeding attachment on a grain drill, or by broadcasting. The seed should be covered very lightly not over one inch. Broadcast seed can be covered sufficiently with a brush drag, or with spoke-tooth harrow with the teeth inclined backward to an angle of 45 degrees.

Should Sow Alone
"Reed canary grass is seldom sown in combination with other grasses but may be sown with small grains. Combination seedings are usually made on land of good fertility and plentiful moisture. Fall seeding with winter grain are sometimes made if the land is adapted to both crops.

"Reed canary grass is primarily a pasture grass. Its long life, long grazing season, and the large quantity of very succulent, palatable forage produced, make it valuable pasture plant where it thrives.

"The use of reed canary grass for hay is increasing. The best quality of hay is obtained from thick stands pastured early to retard the hay period and to produce leafier stems and crowns.

"Reed canary grass is always shocked and allowed to remain until it is cured.

"Yields of from four to nine tons of field-cured hay are obtained. In sections where limited pasturing is practiced, two cuttings a year are possible.

"Reed canary grass is being used in increasing quantities for silage. Prepared as silage, it is a nutritious feed. The yield is large, ranging 15 to 25 tons per acre.

It Is Said--

That McKinley school has been hard hit the last few weeks. Miss Agnes Tracy, first grade teacher, has pneumonia. Miss Eleanor Mul-larkey is confined to the isolation hospital with diphtheria. Miss Lucille Nehls is recovering from measles, and Miss Kathryn Fritschler injured her back in a fall. However, the attendance in both McKinley and Richmond schools is so small because of the onslaught of measles that by switching teachers between the two schools and doubling up on the work it has not been necessary to hire substitutes.

Nurse Gives Rules To Follow to Halt Spread of Disease

In the past few days Miss Marie Klein, county nurse, has been flooded by telephone calls and letters asking how to prevent the spread of chicken pox and measles. Complying with these requests Miss Klein has listed information for the guidance of teachers and parents as follows:

"Advise all families of the presence of measles or chicken pox in the county and suggest they keep away from crowds and watch children closely.

"Check every child carefully each morning for colds, cough or skin eruption.

"Exclude from school at once if any of the above is found. The first ones found and excluded will save an epidemic.

"The ruling on measles and chicken pox is exclusion from school for two weeks from the day started and reporting to the local health officer.

"Complete information can be found on the communicable disease chart which each school should have.

"Keep in close touch with the local health officer as well as the nurse on any suspicious cases.

Expect Many Entries in Holiday Lighting Contest

Many entries in the second annual holiday lighting contest sponsored by the Appleton Post-Crescent are expected to be received during the weekend. Because of its unique and attractive features, the contest, introduced last year, proved unusually successful.

Proof that just a little thought about plans for lighting a home during the holidays, often brings unexpected results came from the experience of one home owner last year. He liked the idea of lighting his home but didn't think it worthy of entering in the Post-Crescent contest.

Friends prevailed upon him to enter.

League Seeking To Change Public Depository Law

John Goodland, Anton Jansen Attend Madison Meeting

Mayor John Goodland, Jr., and Anton Jansen president of Little Chute, attended a meeting of directors and committees of the League of Wisconsin Municipalities at Madison Thursday. Mr. Jansen is president of the league and Mr. Goodland is a director. About 65 members of the league were in conference all day Thursday on matters pertaining to municipalities.

The group voted to introduce a bill at the next session of the legislature which would make it necessary for vocational schools to secure their appropriation through the county, thus eliminating the 1 1/2 mill tax for vocational work.

Study Depository Law

The public depository law was one of the chief subjects of discussion. A clause in the new law provides that in March, 1933, all cities pay to the state 6 per cent of their daily fund balances in 1932. At the present time only 2 per cent is being paid. The league will start drafting a law to take the place of the 6 per cent one, which, it is felt, places too much of a strain on municipal funds.

The league turned its back on the recommendation that municipalities be allowed to reduce school budgets in emergencies after they had once been approved.

The matter of self-liquidating loans from the Reconstruction Finance corporation will be taken up with congressmen and senators, and the question of municipal borrowing for relief purposes has been turned back to a committee for further investigation. A number of cities have difficulty in making temporary loans to carry on their relief work.

Seek Uniform Laws

The traffic committee was advised to complete the drafting of amendments that would provide for a uniform traffic law for the state that would conform to actual practice. This committee also has in its hands an amendment to the traffic code that would make it possible for cities to regulate heavy vehicle traffic without interfering with some of the provisions of the state traffic code.

An effort will be made to introduce a bill that will make it possible to regulate the activities of canvassers in interstate commerce. The sewer rental law also was discussed.

Mayor Goodland and Mr. Jansen also had a one-hour conference with Governor-elect A. G. Schmiedeman, attended the banquet in his honor at the Park hotel, and attended a meeting of the Wisconsin Taxpayers' alliance.

His resolution, upon house adoption, would require the ways and means committee to determine immediately availability of such a tax.

It also would require committee investigation of the volume of American securities held by foreign governments and the feasibility of taxing products or assets of American manufacturing plant established in defaulting countries.

The committee likewise would be directed to see whether it would be advisable to tax all American letters of credit and travelers checks when they were to be used by Americans in the defaulting countries.

"This bill," Britten told reporters, "aimed at France but will take in the other five countries which defaulted on Thursday. It is aimed at discouraging American investments in French securities as well as in American-owned French manufacturing corporations."

Fascism Now Official Santa Claus of Italy

Rome — (P) — Fascism, which has absorbed all other Italian activities, now is Italy's Santa Claus.

The Fascist's smooth-running organization, furthermore, will be a bigger Santa than ever, because more people otherwise would lack the means for making merry.

Depots have been opened in all the large cities and gifts of clothing, food, toys and money are pouring in. Many Fascist syndicates of workmen have voted to give a day's wages to these agencies.

Christmas day, thousands of poor persons will eat big dinners, thanks to the Fascist-inspired depots.

Distribution of the gifts, however, will not be made until Epiphany, Jan. 6, when Premier Mussolini himself will open the distribution here.

Italian children put it all over their American cousins in receiving presents. Christmas, New Year, and Epiphany are all special gift days, and relatives are free to send presents any time.

Christmas is one of the three big "tip-days" in Italy. All mailmen, elevator men, household servants, porters, messengers, barbers, and tradesmen receive liberal gifts.

These men usually present their clients or employers a few weeks before Christmas with a printed card bearing the greeting "Merry Christmas," but this means, "I appreciate a good-sized tip, sir."

PREPARE FOR BEAR HUNT

Oviedo, Spain — (P) — A bear hunt is the highlight of the Christmas celebration in this mountain region. The Chimes of Christmas eye call the residents forth and bands are organized to seek the bears that make the final foraging expeditions about this time of year.

Thus, the Asturias combine a practical purpose with the celebration by protecting their livestock. Meanwhile, the womenfolk prepare a feast, the size of which depends on the success of the hunt.

The collection is done cooperatively. The proceeds are lumped, and divided proportionately.

School Nurses Kept On Jump by Many Cases of Measles

Measles, measles, nothing but measles. Between the administration of toxin antitoxin, diphtheria preventive and the measles, to say nothing of the innumerable common colds, the two school nurses and the deputy health inspector are continually on the jump these days. The list of measles cases in the nurses' office in Lincoln school looks like a Wall Street ticker tape, and in the deputy health inspector's office the card file where the quarantine records are kept is swelled almost out of shape. The school nurses' lot from house to house, from school to school, and the health inspector is beginning to get calloused thumbs from putting up red placards.

The measles situation is getting worse rather than better, and parents are again warned to isolate children with colds. They are to be kept from school, movies, stores, Sunday school, or any other place where they may contact other children.

Five Probate Cases Listed for Hearing

Five probate cases are listed for hearing at a special term of Outagamie-co court at 10 o'clock Tuesday morning before Judge Fred W. Heinemann at the court house. Cases on the calendar include hearing on claims in the estate of Beatrice Segal and Christian Hartje; hearing on final account in the estate of Charles H. Bumann, Fred C. Drews and Ardene Van Hout.

Double Duties For Roosevelt Keep Him Busy

President-Elect Rounding Out His Work as Gov- ernor of New York

Albany, N. Y.—(P)—One of the busiest men in the world, Franklin D. Roosevelt, appears to be thriving on his self-imposed program of 12 to 16 hours of work each day.

With only an occasional "movie," a swim, and a little reading to divert him, the next president is devoting practically all his waking hours to two purposes—preparing for the day next March when he will become the nation's chief executive and putting his affairs in order preparatory to quitting, two weeks from now, the governorship of New York.

In spite of the enormous amount of work that flows across Mr. Roosevelt's desk and the innumerable contacts he has with callers, advisers and subordinates, he remains an effortless worker.

If executives can be classed as "high pressure" and "low pressure" men, the next president belongs definitely in the latter class. There is only one telephone on the Roosevelt desk, the broad mahogany top is next but informally arranged—Roosevelts work quietly, rapidly, and persistently.

"I like to get a job done," he explains, "but I don't like to fret and fume about it."

Breakfasts in Bed

He wakes up, but does not always arise, at 8 a. m., and goes immediately into his work. Breakfast in bed, he reads the papers, goes through his morning mail with his secretary, and dictates.

"Later in the morning he gets up. If he goes to his office, he lunches there, continuing his conferences with his subordinates. Sometimes he works in his study all day, and in that case usually has tea at 5 o'clock. He seldom dines alone.

For "supper" there are always guests, usually people with whom he has dealings.

Once or twice a week he goes from the supper table to a private motion picture, and then resumes work. Often the light in the Roosevelt study shines until midnight.

In spite of the press of work that has come from his dual position as governor and president-elect, his friends say Mr. Roosevelt has never seemed more alert. "The slight trace of weariness brought by the presidential campaign has vanished from his face, and he laughs and jokes with his visitors as usual.

After a particularly heavy day, he relaxes for an hour in bed reading. He prefers history, usually naval history, and detective stories.

Palatable Beer Purpose of Bill

That, Not Revenue, Real Purpose of Measure Says Reilly

BY BUBY A. BLACK
(Post-Crescent Washington Correspondent)

Washington—The purpose of the beer bill, Rep. Michael K. Reilly of Fond du Lac insists in a statement for the Ways and Means committee, should not be primarily to raise revenue, but to give the people "a decent glass of wholesome, palatable beer."

The highest alcoholic content permissible under the 18th amendment should be provided, and the tax should not be such that good beer cannot be sold for five cents a glass, he said.

"Of course, the enactment of the pending bill into a law should bring revenue to the government, national, state, and local, but care must be taken so that the revenue tax proposed will not be in excess of what the traffic will bear," Rep. Reilly said.

Furthermore, he asserted, the federal government should not attempt to "hog all the revenue," as the state governments are in as great need of additional revenue sources as the national government.

To provide a glass of beer for a nickel, beer would have to sell for not more than $12 a barrel, he computes. If the federal government levies a $5 tax, and the beer costs $6, as brewers tell him, that would leave only $1 a barrel for state and local governments.

Beer is so taxed that it is sold at 30 cents a glass, "wildcat brewers," will spring up, thus defeating regulation and reducing revenue, the Fond du Lac congressman predicts.

Rep. Reilly favors a $4-a-barrel federal tax on beer.

Regulation should be left to the states, he advocates.

"If there is one lesson the American people should have learned during the last 12 years, it is that it is futile for congress to try to force upon the people of a state social habits or ways of living that the people themselves do not approve," he comments.

He opposes including legalization of light wines in the beer bill, feeling that this should be left for a special measure.

See Farmers Planting Less Cabbage Acreage

By W. F. Winsey

Center Valley—Cabbage, including some stored on farms, is now being shipped from the station here at the rate of two or more cars each week. The price was said to be $4 per ton. As the price of cabbage has been low the past several years here and throughout Wisconsin growers generally have lost faith in raising cabbage as a paying crop, and will reduce their acreages materially next year and plant more corn, grain, and other dairy feeds, they say.

Gann-Longworth Battle Brought To Its Close

BY BESS FURMAN

Washington—(P)—This was the week when the White House diplomatic reception gave a group of lucky debutantes this country's nearest approach to a court presentation; when the social feed of Dolly Gann and Alice Longworth found a felicitous finale; when the Democrats debated having a several-section inaugural ball.

Not for many administrations has a diplomatic reception brought to the capital so brilliant a representation of the country-at-large as the Thursday one that fell on the same day the debt payments were due.

Talk of a trip south for President and Mrs. Hoover convinced many that the White House, usually staging its gayest parties at Christmas time, would be "dark" through the holiday season—that there wouldn't even be a New Year's reception.

This gave impetus to making the diplomatic fete and event more eventful, and many were the gay dinner parties held before, and supper parties after!

The diplomats were in court dress, and the debutantes invited by Mrs. Hoover saw splendor of masculine gold braid and decorations, plumed hat and side-arms.

Cooperation Is Needed in Fight On Thistle Pests

See Need for Farmers to Join Together to Ex- terminate Weeds

By W. F. Winsey

On a drive over one of the side roads of Outagamie-co through a valley bordered by ridges, last summer the writer witnessed a storm of Canada thistle blossoms sweeping down from a ridge and slope to the north as dense and more beautiful than a snow-storm. With such seedings conducted by the elements and made possible by the carelessness of individuals and communities, the writer wondered what would eventually become of the farm lands in the areas infested with Canada thistles.

In other parts of the county, no seeds were being sown by the winds on that day as the thistles on the farms had been cut at blossoming time by the owners. In thickly infested, uncultivated lands, cutting thistles is too expensive to be possible, and weed-cutting laws are largely ineffective. Cutting Canada thistles is, therefore, a community project, wherever the thistles grow.

Neighbors should assist a farmer who has more thistles than he can cut at blossoming time. In some sections farmers are already joining hands to prevent the general spreading of thistles.

On cultivated lands, the spread of Canada thistles is not only being checked by cutting at blossoming time but the plants are also being killed, blossom, seed, root and stem.

The plan of exterminating the weeds involves cutting at blossoming time, keeping the weeds down in cultivated crops, and smothering them with crops of alfalfa, soybeans planted thickly, sweet clover, Sudan grass, and Reed Canary Grass in lowlands.

Ruggles Sober In New Picture

Be mustached Comedian Doesn't So Much as Touch Single Drop

Charlie Ruggles has at least managed to keep cinematically sober over a period of a couple of months. The popular mustached comedian, playing the role of a waiter in "EVENING FOR SALE," Viennese musical romance from the pen of John Younger which comes to the Fox Theatre, Appleton, Thursday and Friday Dec. 22-23, doesn't touch so much as one drop of "likker" in the entire eight reels of the picture. And that for Charlie is something indeed.

Ruggles scores his first screen triumph in "GENTLEMEN PREFER BLONDES," in which he played the role of a drunken reporter. So well did he play it infact that after that he was cast continually as a drunk in every picture in which he appeared. The long chain of cinematic inebriations ended, however with "THE NIGHT OF JUNE 13TH" in which he didn't touch a drop until the last reel of the picture. In "EVENING FOR SALE" the nearest he gets to liquor is to serve it to patrons of the cafe in which he is a waiter.

The story, which is filmed in fresh, impertinent style of Maurice Chevalier's "LOVE ME TONIGHT" is told with music, words, and trick camera effects. Herbert Marshall, Sari Maritza, and Mary Boland play important roles with Ruggles.

Stuart Erwin Stars In Amusing Comedy

"HE LEARNED ABOUT WOMEN," an amusing comedy dealing with the adventures of a young man who had $50,000, but who had never been kissed, has been booked for the Fox Theatre, Appleton, where it will play Saturday Dec. 17th. Stuart Erwin, Allison Skipworth, Susan Fleming, Grant and Gordon Mitchell head the cast.

Erwin, again wearing his famous bewildered expression plays the role of the wealthy, but unskilled youngster, who decides it's time he learned a few things about life. On his first excursion into the world he stumbles onto Miss Skipworth, and old actress who has scene better days, and Miss Fleming a stenographer, whose services are being offered at an auction conducted for the benefit of the jobless. He hires them both.

Then the fun begins. Miss Skipworth carefully grooms the younger woman for the job of wife not secretary. Meanwhile her own husband and an unscrupulous companion try to chisel their way in.

Tallulah Bankhead In Desert Melodrama

Against the romantic background of a seaport on the north African coast and the neighboring Sahara, Tallulah Bankhead, Gary Cooper, and Charles Laughton enact a dramatic story of love and jealousy in "Devil and the Deep," the new film which opens at the Elite Theatre for 3 days starting Monday.

Miss Bankhead is seen in her latest film as Pauline Sturm, beautiful wife of the commander of a British submarine stationed on the Mediterranean. This man, genial and likeable to his friends, is really obsessed to the point of insanity with a conviction that his wife is unfaithful to him. His suspicions finally drive her into a love affair with a young lieutenant in her husband's command, and, faced with the proof of his suspicions, Sturm goes entirely insane. The method of his revenge carries the film into a melodramatic climax aboard a sinking submarine.

Miss Bankhead as Pauline, Cooper as the lieutenant, and Laughton as the crazed husband give performances of rare distinction, and help to make the film one of the most dramatic and exciting pictures in many moons.

GLAMOROUS! GLORIOUS!

"Fast Life" Boasts Real Speed and Life

One hundred miles per hour speedboat racing the worlds most thrilling sport, is shown in "FAST LIFE," the breath-taking action picture featuring at the Fox Theatre, Sunday December 18th, and starring William Haines.

No effort has been spared to bring the roaring realism of boat racing to the screen. The camera was evidently mounted on a craft following so close to the speeding racers that the results obtain startling effects in reproduction. How collisions were avoided until the big boat smashup does take place is a marvel of combined motion picture and marine engineering.

William Haines has never been offered a role with the virile punch offered in his "Sandy" in this fast, loving racing picture. He continues with the refreshing "Wise-cracking" that has marked his work in previous pictures, with a new restrained performance in dramatic scenes that shows his real acting ability.

Cliff Edwards is uproariously funny in his characterization of "Bumpy," the comedy mechanic who complicates matters for Haines through-out the entire picture. His ability at various comedy, expressions is worked to the limit with many screamingly funny situations which give him full opportunity.

Madge Evans is perfectly cast as the charming Shirley, who provides romantic interest for Haines during his attempts to establish his new racing boat in international competition. She definitely improves each characterization and shows vivid sparkles in the comedy scenes. Excellent work is also contributed by Conrad Nagel, Arthur Byron, Warburton Gable, Kenneth Thompson, and Ben Hendricks.

"No More Orchids" Is Modern Story

Carole Lombard Starred in Film Coming to Ap- pleton Theatre

Only one picture in the past has the sparkle and the scintillating brilliance of Columbia's "No More Orchids," according to critics who have previewed the picture. The other was "Letty Lynton."

The dialogue alone on paper would make absorbing reading, even if it weren't mounted upon a plot that radiates the spirit of today and played by such charming and capable actors and actresses as Carole Lombard, Walter Connolly, Louise Closser Hale and Lyle Talbot. "No More Orchids" will open at the Appleton Theatre with tonight's preview.

Taken from Grace Perkins' popular magazine story of the same title, "No More Orchids" follows the spontaneous and dazzling course of a wealthy society debutante who is almost forced into an undesirable marriage to a title of royalty by a stern and proud grandfather.

At first, the film trips lightly from Paris to Cherbourg and on across the Atlantic Ocean to America on one of the finest and most luxurious of our modern liners, bubbling as it were with gaiety and effervescing with the froth of champagne.

Then the gay and carefree manner of Miss Lombard trips upon the emotional conflict of a sudden affair of the heart that is serious for the first time in her life, and that can't be satisfied because of the entanglement of her engagement to a Prince and the determination of her moved grandfather that she marry into royalty.

Walter Connolly and Louise Closser Hale, two of the finest character players on the American stage screen, play supporting roles as Miss Lombard's father and grandmother.

Lowe-McLaglen In Fourth Film

Battling Buddies Cast as Cop and Reporter in "Guilty as Hell"

The third time's not always the charm.

Edmund Lowe works and battles with Victor McLaglen for the fourth time in "Guilty as Hell," a screen adaptation of the successful murder farce which enjoyed a long run on Broadway last season, and which is showing at the Elite Theatre today and Sunday.

In "What Price Glory," "The Cockeyed World," and "Women of All Nations," the pair fought and battled as soldiers in Uncle Sam's army.

But though they pal around and battle with each other still, it's not as doughboys. Lowe is in the role of a police reporter and McLaglen is cast as a detective. Richard Arlen is also starred in the picture.

The film opens with a murder being committed. The audience learns who is guilty of the crime, but the policeman and the reporter tangle their way through many amusing incidents before they finally get the real murderer.

Arlen is cast as one of the suspects, surrounded by a mass of circumstantial evidence, convicted for the crime, and saved from death by hanging only at the last moment.

ous French singing star has one of the best roles of his career.

Maurice, of the fantastic romance which serves as a story, is a Paris tailor, intent on collecting a long overdue bill from the Vicomte Gilbert. But before that bill is paid, Maurice has posed as a baron, been the honor guest at the house of the Vicomte's uncle, and won the heart of the beautiful Princess Jeanette.

The famous Chevalier charm has never been more in evidence than in the role of Maurice; nor has Jeanette MacDonald ever been more beautiful. Charlie Ruggles as the duke, Charles Butterworth as the count, Myrna Loy as the countess, and Elizabeth Patterson, Blanche Frederici and Ethel Griggs as the three aunts of the Princess Jeanette, complete the cast.

EFFICIENCY IN RELIEF

In order to qualify for assistance from the state poor relief fund, reorganization of poor relief administration within the city is underway. Additional investigators are being employed and it is contemplated that the department shall be under the supervision of a person trained in social service. There is nothing particularly new about the proposed arrangement, except that the work will be headed by a "trained social worker" which has been the suggestion of civic groups for several years. Whether the city will be able to find an adequately trained supervisor, in view of the heavy demands for persons with this training, has not yet been determined. But in any event some changes in administration of poor relief in Appleton are coming.

For a long time there have been two distinct schools of thought relative to poor relief in Appleton. One group clings tenaciously to the view that there can be no real efficiency in administration of relief unless it is under the direction of persons scientifically trained for the work, while another group is just as certain in its own mind that men or women of mature judgment and with long experience as providers or housekeepers for families, but without so-called scientific training can do the work just as well. These differing points of view have been reflected to some extent in relief campaigns carried on in this community.

For the present it would seem that those favoring the trained social worker have gained the ascendancy in so far as municipal relief is concerned. If one can be found, a trained social worker will be placed in charge of administration, and a certain amount of training and experience is required of the family visitors. In theory at least, and probably in practice, the new arrangement should result in really efficient relief work.

Precaution should be taken, however, to avoid the difficulties in which Milwaukee county, sometimes held up to other Wisconsin communities as a model of scientific poor relief efficiency, finds itself. There is evidence that bureaucracy and red tape have so freighted administration in that county that there is neither time nor personnel left for proper relief work. Only recently the county civil service commission was moved to make the observation that "more relief work and less social service" might be in order in that county.

Relief work in Appleton has been singularly free from abuse in the past and we believe this condition will continue. The changes contemplated are in the interest of greater efficiency, and the exercise of ordinary common sense will avoid the difficulties which obstruct those who haven't watched their steps as they moved forward.

EDITOR SMITH AND THE POETS

Mr. Alfred E. Smith, in his capacity as editor of The New Outlook, complains that he doesn't know what to do about all the poetry that is cluttering up his desk. Sympathy in bounteous measure goes out to Mr. Smith, for next to being a great poet is the power of understanding one. A terrible thing it is to be pestered with poets who utter great and wise things which they do not themselves understand.

Editor Smith will learn in time that most of the poets themselves do not know what to do with their stuff, so they send it along to editors whom they suspect of being liberal minded in their own poetic license.

When Editor Al has solved the problem of how to weed out the dactyls from the iambs and marshal in proper array the various assortment of hexameters and octosyllabics submitted for his inspection, the country will have no fear of his ability to run the government. Indeed, the people would be content to waive all partisanship and escort him in state to the presidential chair.

FRANCE TRYS A FARM BOARD

France, ignoring the troubles of our Farm Board in attempting to stabilize cotton and wheat prices, has created a wheat board for the same purpose.

As our own Farm Board experiment was an economic scheme established in an effort to keep a political promise to do something to help the farmer, so is the present action by the French Chamber of Deputies the outgrowth of demands by the Socialists that the French farmer be protected against steadily declining wheat prices.

By the provisions of the bill the board will purchase wheat and take all other measures available to stabilize prices until the next harvest in 1933.

The French government may have a better chance for success than had the American Farm Board in its attempt to regulate economic law. Mr. Arthur Cullen, experienced grain trader, asserts that such a plan will work only "if conditions are right." No matter how much capital an individual or government may have, the price of a commodity cannot be stabilized so long as there continues to be a surplus over demand such as has existed in the case of wheat and cotton in this country—the truth of which the Federal Farm Board has found out to the tune of many millions lost in its attempt to corner the wheat and cotton markets.

The French government may succeed where ours failed so long as wheat imports are prohibited by high tariffs and so long as domestic production is exceeded by consumption either through natural causes or by governmental control of production.

ABOUT ONCE A CENTURY

Excavators into our past relations with France have unearthed a similar controversy to the one now existing and which in fact became more threatening than it is likely the people of either nation will permit this one to become—for after all, responsible public opinion in France may support the Chamber of Deputies in its vote of default about as much as the American people supported the House of Representatives last spring in voting a two billion cash bonus on top of a three billion deficit in the treasury. We must never forget that, since public opinion largely controls the actions of democracies in relation to their important questions, time must be given for that opinion to clearly shape and assert itself.

It seems, however, that the World war was not the only one that enmeshed this country, even without direct participation, for the Napoleonic wars, which were concluded in 1815, had visited a heavy toll of damage upon America and its shipping and commercial interests.

Efforts to adjust these losses had proved futile until General Jackson became president and then, in 1820, a new energy and spirit was used, resulting in a treaty signed on July 4, 1831, by which France was to pay us 5 millions in installments, the first installment payable February 2, 1833.

After this treaty America rested easy again because the very concession of our rights implied a consideration and respect for this country that was gratifying in those, its toddling days.

But France did not pay as agreed. Its king supported America's rights but its legislature didn't want to let the money go. Jackson at one time declared our claims were likely to "furnish a subject of unpleasant discussion and possible collision"—strong words for the president of a nation but "Old Rough-and-Ready," sometimes called "Old Hickory," was a user of strong words which he sometimes polished off with sulphurous blasphemy.

Hot words from one quarter usually beget hot words from another. When Jackson spoke of reprisals as a proper measure of coercion France naturally took the position that she could not pay without dishonor because it would seem that she was paying under threats. The French Chambers were finally brought to realize the justice of America's claim and passed the appropriation with the provision that the money was not to be turned over to America "until it shall have been ascertained that the government of the United States has adopted no measures injurious to French interests." This only served to inflame public opinion in America. Finally diplomatic relations were broken off entirely, each country recalling its representatives from the other. By this time, of course, the nations could not speak to each other, so England intervened.

The French government declared itself satisfied by President Jackson's message of 1835 that no menace was intended, the king of France ordered four installments to be paid at once and the nations were sometimes again. Governments sometimes act a good deal like a child with a chip on his shoulder. Pride is a hard thing to suppress. Dignity is not satisfied by mere dollars.

Possibly history will repeat itself. Although France had no excuse for defaulting a century ago she swallowed affronts at that time for the sake of peace. The American historian Sumner says: "It was very good natured of France to regard the message of 1835 as compliance with her demands. It simply covered her retreat, for she had been wrong on the merits of the question from the beginning, and she bore more than half the blame of the diplomatic deadlock."

Neither nation today will gain anything by flying off the handle or getting hot under the collar. In time the French people will not look upon the recent action of the Chamber with any pride. After the first flush of anger wears off it is usually replaced by a degree of humility which is the first step toward a rapprochement.

The highest tide in the world is in the Bay of Fundy, Canada, where there is a rise of 53 feet.

Bananas may be used in treating certain intestinal diseases, according to the opinion of Dr. Walter H. Eddy, of Columbia University.

The apple tree grows more rapidly than any other fruit tree.

AND NOW everyone is going to sit down and write Christmas cards—dozens of 'em... all to France... dear old la belle, how she has built herself up around these here United States... uh huh... she'll get lots of Christmas cards... "Merry Christmas, Paris, I hope I'm lying." "Season's Greetings, France, Gosh, Wasn't Napoleon a Bum?" "Joyeux (or is it 'joyeuse' or 'joyeux' or 'what') Noel, Santa Claus Only Comes to those who Pay the Bills"... and now musicians can give up the French horn for the saxophone and get away with it... at that, it seems to us that the French had something to do with the invention of the sax... maybe the saxophone will have to be given up too... some good ought to come out of the French default...

And sadly we must shake our head and inform all our friends to whom we were going to give large quantities of genuine French wines along with real French liquor service sets for Christmas that there just won't be anything like that forthcoming. We simply gotta be patriotic.

ARF ARF ARF! WOOF WOOF! BARK BARK BARK! YIPPEEEEEEE! OOOOOOOO! WOOF!

That's us from now on, folks, that's us.

But what if they do get that 3.2-by-weight and 4-by-volume beer bill passed by Congress, Prexy Hoover and the Supreme Court? What kind of a percentage is that?

Stunks. We can already hear Aunt Susie Snodgrass saying, "What a per cent! Next to that spring water, GIMME THE GIN BOTTLE, SOMEBODY!"

And some of the congressmen are kicking about selling the beer in saloons. Well, call them "Ye Olde Stuffy Shoppes" and let it go at that. What's the difference?

The soda fountains will have it anyway.

For no good reason, we just happened to remember that we hadn't been on a street car for years. Or in an ambulance, either. Which is about enough.

THE CHOICE

And one man said:
"All hope is dead
And I wish that I were, too!
For rough is the way
And the skies are gray
And I can't get work to do
And I've lost the things which I thought were mine,
And it's now no use for the sun to shine."

In similar strains,
Betrayed by the fate,
And stricken of his worldly gear,
Another man said:
"Well, I'm far from dead,
And I don't want to quit this year!
There's a lot proved false which I thought was true,
But I want to be here when the sun breaks through."

All men must choose
Of these opposite views,
And it's easy enough to fail,
If you're willing to quit
You can argue for it
With a truly deplorable tale,
But always the difficult thing to do
Is to stick to a problem and see it through.

THE DOUBLE SQUEEZE

Personal Health Talks

BY WILLIAM BRADY, M. D.
Noted Physician and Author

CONTAGIOUS IMPETIGO

Every autumn some kind of breaking-out appears on the skin of several children and adults in a certain group or neighborhood. Doctors call it impetigo. Is this a "dirt disease"? Is it contagious? Should persons who have it be in school, or at work or in their usual contact with well persons, in business or social life? (Mrs. M. M. K.)

In the first place, the authorities on skin disease know little about it. The name impetigo merely signifies an attack. Perhaps the characteristic lesions of impetigo may be caused by different factors in different cases or epidemics.

The commonest form occurs as you describe and is quite contagious. Any child with such an acute eruption on the skin, somewhat resembling chicken-pox or in some instances suggesting ringworm, should be isolated. So should any adult, in the case of a school, nurse or teacher should exclude any such suspicious ailment, at least until a responsible physician passes judgment. In business and social life you have to rely on your own judgment; in view of the shocking lack of conscience on the part of the average ignorant layman (or the layman who pretends to be ignorant) it is wise to err on the side of squeamishness, in sheer self-defense.

The characteristic lesions of impetigo appears first as vesicles (little blisters), which later become pustular, or they are already pustules when first noticed. There is usually considerable itching present. In the course of several days the spots become covered with a brownish crust. The crusts dry up and fall off in a week or longer, leaving a red stain, which gradually disappears in another week.

The crusts of impetigo are larger than the spots of chicken-pox and occur in patches, while the spots of chicken-pox are more evenly distributed over the skin. Impetigo crusts look as though they are "stuck on" the skin. They never leave mark or scar after healing, but chicken-pox lesions sometimes leave pits.

The inquisitive fingers of the patient spread the disease, from place on his or her own skin, and to the skin of any other person who happens to come in close contact. In children the natural impulse to scratch the itchy or irritated spot must be watched. In older girls or boys the anxious handling of the skin must be warned against.

All treatments or remedies for impetigo contagiosa ammoniated mercury ointment seems the most satisfactory. Each spot should be kept covered with a bit of the ointment, gently rubbed in with one finger tip, the finger tip being very thoroughly scrubbed with hot water and soap for disinfection immediately after applying the ointment. Twenty grains of ammoniated mercury in the ounce of soft petrolatum or cold cream is the right strength of ointment.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS
Drinking Water
Does the drinking of four or five glasses of water a day send the blood pressure up? Also does drinking milk send it up? (W. H. G.)

Answer—No to both questions. I advise you to think only of health and the enjoyment of life and never mind your blood pressure. The blood pressure is a matter to be left to the physician's consideration.

Asafoetida
Does asafoetida do the system any harm? What good does it do the system? Some say it is a good nerve medicine and I have been told it keeps the body free from germs. (Mrs. B. M. P.)

Answer—If it were odorless it would have little reputation as medicine. The ancients deemed it sedative, anti-spasmodic and carminative and imagined it was the right medicine for hysterical females. Fetid mastic or chewing material. Don't be silly—germs do not mind the odor at all. Asafoetida is harmless, to the system or the body or what have you.

Why So Chary of Symptoms
In your column I saw where an odor of onions or garlic under the arms and reddened eyelids indicates chronic arsenic poisoning. I have been to many doctors and they just say chronic conjunctivitis... tell me how to get rid of the arsenic... (Mrs. G. J.)

Answer—That's why we rarely refer to symptoms here. You should tell your physician why you suspect arsenic poisoning and leave it to him to make the test to find out. (Copyright, John L. Dille Co.)

The Tinymites
By Hal Cochran

THE wee king's horses and his men marched down the court and back again. The king, of course, felt very proud. "They're mighty fine," said he.

"I've trained them all to fight real well. When'er I ride around the town they are protecting me."

"There's only one thing that I fear. It's something that means trouble here. The dickens dwarfs live in the woods, not very far away."

"If they should come and start a fight, I fear things would not turn out right. It always keeps me worried, 'cause they may come any day."

You see, they're really full of fun but, my, oh, my, the things they've done. They're all full of the dickens and they wreck things left and right."

"They stormed the castle weeks ago and they'll return some day. I know. They race around and when they leave, the whole place looks a sight."

"My little soldiers are too small. They really are not match at all. Just then they heard a bugle. 'I was right,' the wee king cried."

"That bugle means the dwarfs are near. We're in for trouble now, I fear." He rushed up to a window and continued, "They're outside."

Wee Duncy promptly stuck his head out of the window. Then he said, "Oh, don't you fret about those dwarfs. I'll shoot them all away."

"I'll race right down, with all my might, and chase them till they're out of sight. I'll be one bit afraid. In fact, it'll be like play."

Wee Duncy reached a drawbridge where his voice rang clearly in the air. "Get out of here, you dickens dwarfs! You'll raise no fuss today."

"If I catch you, I'll spank you good." All of the dwarfs knew that he would. They looked scared for a moment. Then they turned and ran away.

1,500 Counties Free of Bovine Tuberculosis
Madison—(P)—Approximately half of the 3,072 counties in the United States are now practically free of bovine tuberculosis, according to figures received here today from the U. S. department of agriculture.

The department said 1,502 counties, part of one county, and 65 towns were classified as modified areas on Nov. 1, 1932. This signifies that bovine tuberculosis has been reduced to 0.5 per cent or less of the cattle population.

Eight entire states are now classified as modified accredited areas, the department said. They are Wisconsin, Maine, North Carolina, Michigan, Indiana, Ohio, Idaho, and North Dakota. Veterinary officials expect two or more states to reach the goal in 1933. The work is being conducted by livestock owners and state, county, and local officials in cooperation with the bureau of animal industry, U. S. department of agriculture.

A Bystander In Washington

BY HERBERT PLUMMER

Washington—Were the republicans to decide, and it is rumored they might, to put Senator Moses of New Hampshire in charge of their publicity forces during the coming democratic era, the game of politics would perhaps take on a new zip the next four years.

For this witty, wisecracking New Englander, defeated last November in his attempt to return to the senate, could be expected to let loose in a lively fashion.

He was a newspaperman before he became a senator and knows all the tricks of the game.

For many years Moses has been a recognized wit and tactician in the senate. He has in turn delighted, infuriated and cowed those on capitol hill, with his sharp tongue and repartee.

What he could do in a job where these things count for much, anyone familiar with politics at all can guess.

Job to His Liking
And there's some very good evidence, perhaps, that Moses would find such a job very much to his liking at the moment.

His defeat at the hands of the baseball, sports-loving Fred H. Brown, a democrat—although it was by the comparatively slim margin of 2,117 votes—left the senator smarting.

He is not the kind of man who takes defeat easily. He had his heart set on another term in the senate and worked hard to realize that ambition.

That he doesn't feel altogether resigned and philosophical about it, perhaps, is evidenced by his intimation that he was a victim of "concerted treachery."

A Good Opportunity
Considering all this then, and also the fact that Moses is the man who described his insuring republican brethren in the senate as "sons of the wild jackass" and has at other times lashed out with his tongue in telling fashion, what could he do in a job where he could employ his talents at will?

He is on record as having said that he expects to be active, "much more active than I ever thought in the near future."

Lamb's 'Feel' Held

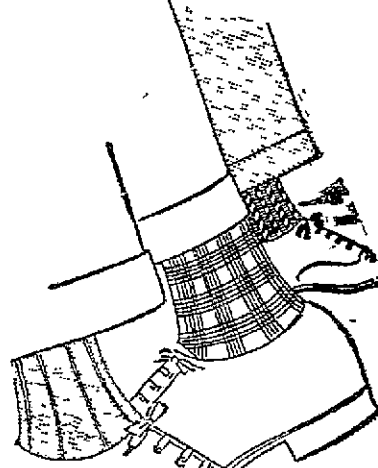

Best Fitness Test

Ames Iowa—(P)—In determining whether a lamb is fat and ready for the market, C. W. McDonald, Iowa State college extension sheep specialist, declares the hand is better than scales.

He says sheep raisers should ascertain whether the backbone of the animals is covered with fat and that this is best learned by feeling it when the lambs are being fed at the bunks.

When the lamb away, he says, is to grasp the lamb around the loin. In a thin and poorly finished lamb the fingers can pass over the edges of the loin. This is impossible if the lamb is fat.

St. Mary Five Cops 26-9 Tilt From Oshkosh

Visiting Team Held to Single Free Throw in First Half

Menasha—Filling up a 14 to 1 advantage in the first half, the St. Mary high school basketball team swept to an easy 26 to 9 victory over St. Mary's of Oshkosh in a Catholic high school league clash here Friday evening. Riesel, flashy St. Mary center, led the Menasha team's attack with eight field goals for a total of 16 points.

The game marked the third home appearance by the Menasha parochial high school aggregation this season and the second win in three conference starts.

The visitors were clearly outclassed in all departments, were scoreless throughout the first quarter, and were held to one point on a free throw in the second period. Four of their nine points were scored against stringer cagers in the closing minutes of play.

Riesel, a constant threat, monopolized the scoring in the opening quarter, chalking up three field goals for St. Mary's of Menasha while the Oshkosh quint failed in attempts to penetrate the Menasha defense.

Oshkosh Scores
Coopman moved from guard to forward as the second quarter opened but fouled Ferial to allow the Oshkosh five to break into the scoring column with a successful free throw. Riesel retaliated with a bucket for Menasha, Coopman repeated, and Riesel added two more before the half.

Coopman made another basket as the second half opened. Schmirler scored the Oshkosh team's first field goal, and both Riesel and Riesel sank shots from the floor to give Menasha a 24 to 3 advantage.

Schmirler scored another field goal in the final period but Riesel scored his seventh and eighth baskets and Coach Dills sent in his reserves.

The visitors added four points on a bucket by Schmirler and free throw by Riesel, but the Oshkosh team failed to score before the final whistle.

The St. Mary eighth grade team of Menasha defeated a similar aggregation from the Oshkosh parochial school, 13 to 5, in a preliminary contest.

Menasha Brewery Operator Fined on Income Tax Charge

Peter Winz Assessed $500 And Costs or Sentenced to Jail

Menasha—Peter Winz, alleged to be the chief brewer among four Menasha brewery operators, was sentenced by Municipal Judge S. L. Spengler Friday at Oshkosh to pay a fine of $500 and costs or to serve six months in the county jail on his plea of guilty to a charge of failure to make proper income tax returns.

The information to which Winz entered plea contained seven separate counts, involving seven years during which he failed to make returns, but sentence on the other counts of the information was suspended on the basis of information given the court that Winz is paying the state $2,100 in back taxes, an estimate as to the amount due.

Others are Fined
The other defendants, allegedly in the employ of Winz during the first four years of the period involved previously paid fines of $100 and costs each and $800 in back taxes. They were Sylvester and Arthur Winz and Herman J. Seider. The arrests followed investigations of tax commission representatives who still are working in this area.

No statements were made, the court having been fully informed of the circumstances when the other defendants were sentenced.

Tax officials, who made the investigation, reported their estimate on the income involved to be in excess of $100,000. Other investigations in progress may bring similar prosecutions into the local court, it was asserted.

Santa Embarrassed at Roosevelt Town Home

Mottl Bowls 650 Series at Menasha Scores Individual Games Of 200, 243 and 207 To Set Fast Pace

New York—(AP)—"Buzze" and I've been thinking," said Anna Eleanor Roosevelt last night, "that the house would wiggle when you came down the chimney if you were so very fat."

The youthful Irish eyes of Santa Claus—who also gets mail addressed to Mr. Roosevelt—glanced furtively down at his somewhat obviously artificial waistline as he hastily rejoined:

"Well, well, well; And what shall I bring you for Christmas?"

A little prematurely, but with excellent intentions, Santa Claus had arrived to pay a call on the Roosevelt grandchildren, "Sistie" and "Buzze" Dall.

There was a lot going on in the Roosevelt town house in E. 65th-st. Their grandfather, the president-elect of the United States, had arrived just ahead of him. Secretaries hurried hither and yon. The telephone rang and rang. A delegation of Democrats filled the reception room. There were numerous guests for tea.

And here was the fine old gentleman—of 23—faced with the necessity of making certain important changes in his costume. He finally found privacy in the dining room.

"Sistie," who is not quite 6, and "Buzze," aged 2, awaited him in the nursery, in bathrobes and pajamas. It was a tense moment for them—and a tender moment for Mr. Claus.

He had forgotten his 'mustache! He really looked more like a coachman than he did like—well, like himself. However:

"A 'hiccy,' please, with two whisks," breathed "Sistie," adoring blue eyes fixed on the distinguished visitor's perspiring countenance.

"A twain and a twuck—a big twuck," complacently granted "Buzze."

And Santa Claus, with an imploring look at their grandmother, said a few "well-well-wells" and he'd see what he could do about it. P. S. He didn't stay for tea.

Independent Oil Firms Defeated

Lose in Long Efforts to Bolster Price of Crude at Wells

Tulsa, Okla.—(AP)—The independent oil companies of the vast mid-continent area today saw their year-long efforts to rule crushed, and the major firms again determining crude prices at the wells.

Defeat of the independents came after their bullish efforts pushed crude prices from 70 cents a barrel 13 months ago, to $1.12 top last October.

Today the prevailing top price was 77 cents, posted by the purchasers of an overwhelming majority of the crude oil produced in this prolific area.

Two companies stood out of the pack that scrambled for the bulletin boards with new price schedules after the majors led the way.

These were the Magnolia Petroleum company, and the Texas company. Each posted an individual schedule, and sought to prevent the market break to the new low figure from becoming absolute.

Magnolia and Texas were paying up to $1 and $1.05 top for certain grades of midcontinent crude, but their purchases are small in comparison to the vast quantities bought by the score or more companies agreeing to the major's viewpoint.

Shell Petroleum, too, was a hold-out for higher prices today, and still paid $1 top in Oklahoma and Kansas. This company had been forced to cut 12 cents to the $1 level only 24 hours earlier, however, and its executives were considering whether to hold their ground or follow the downward trend.

The major purchasers forcing the issue were the Standard Oil companies of New Jersey and Indiana. They took with them the Consolidated oil corporation, leading independent, and the rout soon was virtually complete.

Depression Foreseen by Isaiah, Church Claims

Salt Lake City—(AP)—The present world depression is in fulfillment of old testament prophecy and its remedy was recorded in the Bible, the first presidency of the Latter Day Saints church declares in its Christmas greeting, published in the Deseret News.

Issued by Heber J. Grant, president of the church, and Anthony W. Ivins, his first counselor, it says in part:

"Since our last Christmas greeting the world wide distress and confusion to which attention was called has continued with increasing intensity to a point unparalleled in the history of the modern world."

"No one will deny that Isaiah foresaw existing conditions. He tells us in simple language the causes which have led up to this condition in the following words: 'They have transgressed the laws, changed the ordinance, broken the everlasting covenant.'"

The remedy, the statement says, is found in the prophecy of Malachi, who wrote: "Return unto me and I will return unto you, saith the Lord of Hosts."

The greeting further states: "Whether it was on the night of the 25th day of December or on some other date that the angel of the Lord announced to the shepherds who watched over their flocks on the hills of Judea, the birth of Christ of a Savior who was Christ the Lord, the church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints joins with other Christian churches and people in commemorating this most important event in the history of the world."

Hold Round Table On Peace Problems

The state round table to decide the Wisconsin attitude on problems of permanent international peace is being held Saturday at the home of Mrs. Ben Hooper, Oshkosh, state chairman of the movement. Mrs. Wilson S. Naylor and Mrs. Earl J. Boulden, Appleton, are present at the meeting.

Delegates from several Wisconsin cities are attending to bring the ideas and suggestions developed in their local groups. At noon the members were guests of Mrs. Hooper at a buffet luncheon at her home.

The session is being held to conform with the suggestion of Mrs. Carrie Chapman Catt, chairman of the national committee on the cause and cure of war, who suggested last April that ideas for the promotion of peace be collected in local groups, forwarded to state groups, and from there presented to the national round table.

The purpose of the conference at Oshkosh is to consider all suggestions from all Wisconsin sources and then to merge those ideas into an approved report for Wisconsin to be taken to the January national meeting in Washington. The conference at Oshkosh will select the Wisconsin delegate to the Washington round table.

Is she coming into young womanhood with pretty teeth?

Pretty teeth are healthy and regularly cared-for teeth. As a factor in beauty, they reflect periodic attention just as do complexion, hair and physical condition. Thank your dentist for his advice and services; if your daughter's teeth are a credit to her appearance.

"APPLETON STORES ARE LENDING ME A HAND THIS YEAR-

MOST Appleton Stores Will Remain Open

*Every Night Next Week

Because sub-zero weather deterred many shoppers from making their holiday purchases this week, most Appleton stores will remain open every night next week with the exception of Christmas Eve. This action, it is believed, will help to distribute shopping crowds more evenly.

"even greater than before!"

It's easy enough to "give Santa a great big hand" but to lend an active hand in the solution of his many problems is something else altogether.

But that's what Appleton's stores are doing — and this year in a bigger way than ever. They know that some of the old ideas had to be junked, that brightness and newness and sparkle would have to be injected in to 1932's gifts. They realized, too, that values simply HAD to be better than at any other holiday shopping season in years and years.

No matter if times are slow, and pocketbooks hesitant to open, the sure-fire treatment of irresistible gifts at easy-to-buy prices is being applied with a vengeance. Look out, shoppers — the stores in THIS community simply insist that you have a merry Christmas.

Every day, important announcements are being made in the pages of the Post-Crescent. If you think it's too cold to shop around, choose from the pages of this newspaper and have your selections mentally made before you ever leave the house!

On Monday starts one of the biggest shopping weeks of the year. All set folks? Let's go!

P. S. — for advertisers only — your best bet for getting a worthwhile share of next week's business is right here in the Post-Crescent. Remember — it's the ONLY MEDIUM WHICH IS SURE TO BE BROUGHT INTO THE HOUSE AND READ!

Building Shows In-

By Gordon R. McIntyre
NEW LONDON.—(P)—The La Crosse Teachers' college basketball team last night scored a 47 to 34 victory over Concordia college.

The accuracy of LaCrosse forwards, who scored numerous baskets from weird angles, was more than the Concordia team could match.

Most of the LaCrosse trick stuff was provided by Schwoegler, Smart and Novak, who accounted for all but five of the visitors' points. Play was fairly even throughout the first half and in the second a Concordia rally placed it momentarily in the lead. Then sustained LaCrosse cleverness began to tell and the teachers forged steadily ahead.

"Parents are finding it hard to find a common ground with their children and youth," the Badger coach said, "and unless they show interest such as results in large gymnasiums and from following sports and athletics, especially in the schools, youth never will have confidence in them. I am one of those who believe sports the easiest way for parents to guide the footsteps of youth," Dr. C. W. Spears said.

The speaker went on to state that he had found "present day young men cleaner cut fellows who trained better, led better lives and had fewer bad habits than those he contacted in his early days of coaching. They are better in every respect, and if they seem smarter and a bit sophisticated, that is because parents today are failing to keep up with them."

Spears Well for Community
Dr. Spears then praised New London for having built a large new school with so complete a gymnasium commenting that "it speaks well for the people in this community."

The gymnasium program opened at 6 o'clock when the Rotary and Lions club in joint meeting entertained the New London high school football squad at a dinner at the Elwood hotel. W. T. Comstock of the Lions club was toastmaster, and during the dinner the Lions club quartet sang two songs.

Members of the quartet were G. A. Wells, Rev. William Mason, Theodore Helms and Ben Andrews. Group singing was led by Henry Spearbreaker of the Lions club and Mr. Comstock made announcements for the Lions and R. J. McMahon for the Rotarians.

Following dinner there was introduction of guests and the speaking program got underway with a talk by Irwin Uferitz, of the University of Wisconsin coaching staff and one of the University of Michigan's greatest quarterbacks and athletes. He commented that he was accompanying Dr. Spears so that the doctor might have someone to talk to while riding around the state and therefore would not take any time.

He neglected, however, to mention a game he and "Doc" played during odd moments of the dinner in which he proved the better guesser on who was Rotarian and who was Lion. "Utz" ended the guessing contest about five up on the doctor.

Open Season for Speeches
Doctor Spears in his talk at the dinner reiterated for the gathering some of the side lights on coaching, mentioning that after the grid season was over it was open season for coaches on speaking dates.

He mentioned a few of the things grid coaches have happen during their usually well filled days and how rumors often were, and had to be run down or otherwise cause coaches no end of trouble.

One instance the doctor mentioned was the case of Joestings at Minnesota. The doctor received a telephone call one night before a big game that the Gopher star had been killed in an automobile smashup. There were over 100 calls to his home inquiring about the case. It developed Joestings' venerable old college Ford had had one head light glass broken in a collision.

Another incident that caused a little furor in the doctor's daily routine was a report about a college football star being mixed up in a gambling ring. When that rumor was run down it developed that the alleged gambling conversation was with reference to the athletes' fraternity betting a Gopher chapter a blanket, a practice of several years standing.

Dr. Spears expressed his thoughts regarding choice of and use of players, stating he never felt he should send a boy into a game unless he knew the boy was able to perform so well that some error might not result in a misplay that would lose a football game and make the youth object of the howling crowd.

Bad Pass Lost Game
As an example he cited a center who had played under him whose one weakness was erratic passing. The youth often wondered why he was not used often. In one game injuries took other centers and the boy went in; at a crucial moment he unloosed a wild pass and the game was lost as result. The incident nearly broke the youth, the doctor said.

Getting a little more intimate about coaching, Dr. Spears said that the greatest inefficiency in coaching was the inability to pick the proper material. To explain that he commented on the loss of time and effort to a coach who picks a certain man for a position and then

LaCrosse Peds Win
From Concordia Five

Moorhead, Minn.—(P)—The La Crosse Teachers' college basketball team last night scored a 47 to 34 victory over Concordia college.

Most of the LaCrosse trick stuff was provided by Schwoegler, Smart and Novak, who accounted for all but five of the visitors' points. Play was fairly even throughout the first half and in the second a Concordia rally placed it momentarily in the lead. Then sustained LaCrosse cleverness began to tell and the teachers forged steadily ahead.

Six Big Ten Teams
In Action Tonight

Chicago—(P)—Moving out of the easy game stage, six Big Ten basketball teams will undergo stiff tests tonight.

Iowa, which has won three straight, will meet Carleton, conqueror of Wisconsin, at Iowa City, and the Badgers will tackle Marquette's veteran outfit. Purdue will meet another experienced team, the Billikens from St. Louis University, and Wabash will give Illinois a workout.

Michigan goes to Kalamazoo, Mich., to meet Western State Teachers, which gave the Wolverines a beating in their first game of the season. Minnesota will entertain Pittsburgh, and on tomorrow, should win, for the Panthers took a 31 to 22 beating from Northwestern last night.

Northwestern, not rated at the first of the season as being as strong as last year, continued to show power and poise in winning its third straight this season, and evening up the score at two each, in its series with Pitt.

Lawrence Five
Looks Fair as
It Wins 35-10

Coach Denney Uses Large
Squad in First Game
On Home Court

COACH ART DENNEY paraded 13 of his Lawrence college basketballers before a small crowd at Alexander gym last night and came out on the long end of a 35 to 10 mixup with St. Norbert's college.

Five sophomores saw considerable action for Lawrence and made showings that should give enough hope for the future to overshadow, almost, the ragged passing on offense and the failure to click on defense.

Occasional bursts of Viking speed resulted in field goals made in rapid succession, but the lulls were just as evident, and a bit more prolonged. It was not an air tight Lawrence defense that held St. Norbert to two field goals, both made in the first half, but rather the inability of the visitors to connect on dozens of shots.

Show Nervousness
The usual first game nervousness was in evidence for Sophomores Ashman, Pfeiffer and Jones, who started the fray, and their condition was not aided greatly by veterans Karsten or Rafto whose bad passes in the opening minutes contributed considerably to floor scrambling.

It was the usual first game showing for the most part, made to look a bit more ragged because of the constant recollection of the work last year of Bill Colbert and Willie Haase, both of whom were scheduled to contribute to the Viking bag of riches this winter, and both of whom are not on Mr. Denney's squad.

It was impossible to tell just which of his many combinations Denney favored, but it was evident that the improvement in Sid Felts at center and the work of Blum and Jones at forward, along with that of Pfeiffer and Ashman at guard, when added to what little was left of last season's strength, should give Coach Denney a pretty good squad.

Ben Rafto opened the scoring with a field goal and Jones followed quickly with another before Smithwick tallied for the visitors. Karsten and Ashman then connected for goals to make the Vikings comfortable at 8 to 2. Rafto came through with a field goal and a free toss and Smithwick added a point on Ashman's foul to make it 11 to 5.

Lead 14-7 at the Half
Jones accounted for another Lawrence bucket and Pfeiffer fouled Hanson who added one to the visitors' total on the free toss. Rafto and Fleck both collected from charity lane and the half ended with the Vikings on the long end of the 17 to 7 count.

Lawrence opened the second period with a bit of nifty passing that resulted in field goals by Felts, Pfeiffer and Ashman, but their speed didn't last long. After a prolonged lull Janssen's foul allowed Blum to boost the Vike total a point and Curtin's interference with Williams resulted in two more points for the Vikings from the free throw line. Then Blum connected for two field goals in rapid order and the play slowed down again while both teams got a few dozen basses out of their respective systems.

Williams was first to show recuperative powers and connected for a field goal and a free toss, followed by field goals by Blum and Jones and a charity toss by Pfeiffer to finish the Lawrence scoring. Smithwick added two points on fouls by Rafto and Williams and Jansen brought the St. Norbert's total to 10 when Jones fouled him. The game ended at 35 to 10.

game, 16 to 11. It was the first valley game for both teams.

The Appleton coach put a well-balanced team on the floor, composed of boys who knew how to handle a basketball. East's boys did well against the invaders and made a real battle of it but they weren't as polished as the Appleton squad. East fought right down the stretch and turned in a fine defensive game, breaking up many Appleton plays before it got men into position for short shots. The invaders did succeed in working block-out plays to send men under the basket for shots at the hoop and connected often enough to bring victory.

Take Ball Off The Board
Appleton's clever play on the jumps gave it possession of the ball most of the time. When East met the jump, Appleton players invariably changed in to take it away. The Appleton boys also played the back-board better than East, getting re-bounds more often than the Red Devils.

Appleton gained an early lead in the first period on a free throw by Vinter and a short basket from the field by Johnston gave it a 3 to 1 lead at the end of the first quarter. East turned in a fine game the second period to hold the invaders scoreless while Kemnitz broke through to sink a short shot and tie the count at half time 3 to 3.

Appleton reached its full power in the third period, running up nine points while holding East to two free throws and the quarter ended, 12 to 5. Rooney connected with a short push-in from near the free throw line to start the scoring spree and Rule added a free throw. Winter connected twice on free throws but Schuette sank a free throw for East to cut the margin. Rooney then got loose on a block-out play and scored on a short shot. Rule followed with another from near the free-throw line. Kemnitz tossed a free throw through the hoop as the quarter ended.

Kemnitz cut the margin with another free throw in the last period and then took a fast pass to push in a short shot and East was only four points behind. Winter entered the game for Appleton and on his first try connected for two more points. Cy-Burton added a free throw and Arnold pushed in another to run Appleton's total to 16. Muller sank a free throw and then Miller dropped in two free East's total to 11. Miller's last free throw came after the referee called a technical foul on Coach Joseph Shields, Appleton.

McLarnin Hangs
K. O. on Fuller
In 8th Round

Jimmy Has Nine Pound
Advantage; Bout One-
Sided Fray

BY ALAN GOULD
Associated Press Sports Editor
NEW YORK.—(P)—They might just as well give Pick Vidal ten yards in a broken field or tender Bill Car ten feet in a foot race as to give Jimmy McLarnin a ten-pound advantage in weight and expect even so game an opponent as Sammy Fuller to survive the handicap.

Fuller, a tough lightweight scrapper from Boston, did it last night but was outclassed and knocked out in the eighth round of a ten-round match that failed either to add to McLarnin's popularity in New York or satisfy some 11,636 customers who paid $27,558 at $5.50 tops for a one-sided affair.

The chunky Irish lad from Vancouver, in at 145 pounds to Fuller's 136, displayed plenty of hitting power but he was slower and wilder than usual, missing so many punches at the bobbing blackhead of Fuller that it was a bit draughtily around the ringside.

End Comes in Eighth
Jimmy connected sufficiently to put Fuller down four times before Referee Pete Hartley counted the final ten seconds in the eighth round only two seconds before the time for the bell. Left hooks to the head were McLarnin's most damaging weapon and it was with one of them that he draped Fuller across the middle strand of the green ropes for the finisher. Sammy fell back into the ring, first on his back, then took the last of the count on all fours, his eyes glassy and blood dripping from his puffed lips.

McLarnin's left eye was fuffy from Fuller's left jabbing and he fell awkwardly to the floor, in the fifth round after missing a swing at Sammy's jaw. Fuller won this fifth round on his aggressiveness and brisk hitting but he was out-mored and out-thought by a wide, monotonous margin. The crowd didn't take kindly to the obviously uneven character of the match and manifested its sentiments noisily, including the well known "Bronx cheer" from the boys in the gallery.

Four Pros Lead at
Pasadena Tourney

Frank Walsh and Olin
Dutra are Tied With
Counts of 71

Pasadena, Calif.—(P)—Half a dozen professionals, disinterested of par, led the way for more than 100 golfers into the second round of play in the Pasadena $4,000 open tournament today.

With four of the array tied for first place because of their scores of 68 yesterday, three under standard, and eight more within three strokes of the lead, the drive over the Brookside park course to the $1,000 first prize money moved toward the halfway mark unscathed by any one favorite.

There was Harry Cooper, Chicago pro, who cracked out a 35-33 in the defense of the 1931 championship. Big Fred Morrison, pro at Annandale, Calif., turned in the same figures and played as he did in the Agua Caliente open a year ago to win the big stake.

Leo Diegel, former P. G. A. champion and pro at Agua Caliente, Mexico, was in a money-winning mood as his 33-33 card indicated. And not the least of the leading foursome was youthful Dick Metz, Texan by birth but easterner by choice, who first posted the figure at 68 yesterday with two 34s. Metz is entered from Deal, N. J.

Right behind this advance guard moved Craig Wood, Deal, N. J., pro who won the San Francisco open Monday. Wood shot a 36-33—69 by virtue of a convincing putting performance. Willie Hunter, Los Angeles veteran, finished out the string of sub-par performers. with a 34-36—70.

Listed among those who scored 71s were Olin Dutra, Santa Monica, national P. G. A. champion, who still was suffering from a bad cold and Frank Walsh, Chicago, runner-up to the title.

Caras Out of Race
At Billiard Tourney

New York.—(P)—Jimmy Caras apparently will have to wait at least a year before he can hope to take back to his home in Wilmington, Del., the national pocket billiard championship.

The 21-year-old youngster, a sensation after he won four matches in a row, suffered his second consecutive defeat last night and today was regarded as virtually out of the running.

Caras bowed to the steady play of the Chicago veteran, Pasquale Natalie, 128 to 3 in 11 innings.

The Chicago veteran, moved into undisputed possession of third place with five triumphs and one defeat. The fight for the title now seems to lie among the two undefeated leaders, Erwin Rudolph of Cleveland and Ralph Greenleaf of New York, Natalie and Andrew Ponzi of Cleveland who has won four games and lost only one.

Cincinnati Reds
Buy Bottomley
From St. Louis

Cincinnati.—(P)—The Cincinnati Reds today announced that they had acquired "Sunny Jim" Bottomley of the St. Louis Cardinals, in a straight trade for Owen Carrou, a pitcher, and Estil Crabtree, Red centerfielder.

Bottomley will fill the gap at first base, where it was expected Joe Morrissey would serve. His acquisition is expected to assure George Grantham his favorite spot at second. A third baseman to match the other two infielders also is sought.

Carroll was looked upon as the hard-luck pitcher of a hard-luck team last year, losing nineteen games. Crabtree played centerfield fairly regularly, alternating with Douthitt.

Badgers, Hilltops
Meet at Madison

Doc Meanwell Once More
Pits Skill Against Former Pupil

Madison.—If the stage was ever set for a last ditch basketball battle, it is for the twelfth game between Wisconsin and Marquette at the Wisconsin field house Saturday night.

To the natural rivalry between the universities of the state are added numerous additional incentives. In two games last year, Marquette was victorious in the first by a three point margin, and Wisconsin in the second, by a bare two points. In the preceding season, Marquette spurred at the finish to win 16-14.

Dr. Walter E. Meanwell, who has coached the Badgers to eight Big Ten championships in his 18 years at the helm here, is admittedly irked by the fact that one of his former pupils, Bill Chandler, Hilltop cage coach, has been successful in two of the last three games. Chandler, on the other side of the argument, knows that his Marquette supporters would rather win from Wisconsin than from any team on the schedule—or any other five games, as a matter of fact. The close game between the Badger and Hilltop football teams, won by Wisconsin, 7-2, last fall only heightened the traditional rivalry.

This year, Chandler again appears to have a slight advantage in the potential strength of his material, with four husky veterans and a sensational sophomore. They are bigger than the Badgers, as fast and more experienced. The senior quartet all played football and are real competition.

For Wisconsin, Coach Meanwell will probably start a trio of sophomores and two letter men who were reserves last season. This green team is coming along nicely but is not expected to reach conference form until mid-season. In the first game, against Carleton last week, the squad showed flashes of class but were obviously nervous and over anxious. Although the players are, as a group, much taller and heavier than any Wisconsin squad since 1928-1929, they will still be over-matched in size and ruggedness against Marquette.

$30 Tax Rate Set by Council In New London

$5 Reduction Established By Aldermen — New Budget Is $177,970

New London—A tax rate of $30 next year for every $1,000 of assessed valuation was established by the city council at a special meeting last night. This marks a reduction of $5 under this year's rate.

The council adopted a budget of $177,970, slashing $47,000 from the 1932 budget. The heaviest reduction was made in the school budget, the $58,000 allowed for this purpose marking a decrease of approximately $9,000. Although the new school budget calls for reductions in teachers' salaries, this will not go into effect on the present contracts.

General city governmental expenditures were reduced from $10,105 to $8,645. The saving in this department was realized chiefly through the reduction of salaries.

The police and fire department will cost $15,500 next year. While the saving in this department is small, allowance has been made for the purchase of some fire department equipment. This step will result in reduced fire insurance rates in the city, it was said.

Poor relief, it was estimated, will cost more than $30,000. This sum approximates that for state and county taxes.

Salaries of street department employees were cut about 25 per cent, while the utility employees will receive reductions of 15 per cent. The budget for the health department was placed at $2,825, but as the cemetery is nearly self-supporting, the net cost of this department will be approximately $700, it was estimated.

The library budget was cut for the second time in two years, this time $1,000. Interest on city debts will amount to $10,000.

Present School Play

Next Tuesday Night

Special to Post-Crescent

New London—The all school play, "The Tumbler," a three-act comedy drama written by Eugene C. Hafer, is ready for presentation by a cast of students representing the four classes of the school next Tuesday evening. This will be the first play to be produced on the new auditorium stage. It was selected because of the possibilities in which light and sound effects can be nicely arranged.

A brief synopsis shows John Chadwick, president of the Chadwick Steel Mills, who has received threatening letters. These state that the mills will be destroyed because of a revenge motive. As the play progresses the destroyer himself appears on the scene, unknown to those threatened. The plans of destruction progress, but before there is ample opportunity for them to arrive at a head, another force enters the situation, and the outcome is totally different from that first anticipated.

Slash Budget of County $16,428 For Coming Year

Board Votes on Appropriations Totalling $168,377 for 1933

Special to Post-Crescent

Waupaca—Waupaca-co's board of supervisors in its annual fall session, one of the longest in history, cut the 1933 budget $16,428.14 from the amount raised a year ago. The total in 1932 was $184,805.85 and the amount this year is $168,377.71.

Highway appropriations are again missing, and eight of the 16 thousand dollars reduction is due to cuts in the salaries of county offices. The remainder of the budget remains about as it was before, with a slight rearrangement of funds making another $12,000 reduction in the interest of highway bonds. Outside of those two items the county budget shows an increase over last year.

In addition to the regular budget, there are special charges of approximately $100,000 which take care of indigent soldiers' relief, county school taxes, school district loans and interest, the county's share in the support of state charitable and penal institutions, etc. While the budget has been slightly reduced, the rate advances from $3.77 to $3.85 per thousand dollars valuation, due to the fact that the assessed valuation in the county has been cut about $6,000,000.

Insect Is Seen as Greater Menace Than Boll Weevil

Washington (A)—Placing of a quarantine on six north Florida counties to prevent spread of the pink bollworm has renewed discussion of the insect as potentially a greater menace to cotton than the boll weevil.

The weevil is a bug which feeds from the cotton boll, while the bollworm is the larva of a moth and chiefly attacks the seed.

When first hatched the bollworm is glassy white with light brown anterior markings. It grows rapidly and when mature measures nearly a half inch in length. It is cylindrical, white, with a dorsal side of a strong pink color.

Native of India

India appears to be the original home of the pink bollworm, and it is believed to have made its way to Mexico in seed from Egypt, thence by the same route into parts of New Mexico and Louisiana in 1917.

The pink bollworm has four stages—egg, larva, pupa and adult or moth. The moth seldom is seen in nature, habitually hiding by day under stones or brush. Unlike most moths, it is not sufficiently attracted by light to make night trapping successful in control work.

Bores Into Squares, Bolls

The larva, on hatching, bores its way into either a square or a boll. Infested bolls sometimes become recognizable by a reddish or blackened discoloration.

The larva restricts itself to the interior of a boll it first enters, devouring one seed and proceeding to the next one above.

During the summer the full-grown larva either cuts a hole in the outer boll wall for the emergence of the moth and pupates immediately under it, or drops to the soil and pupates within the surface layer or under trash.

Often the larva protects itself by webbing two seeds together.

The larva has been known to live 12 to 13 months in stored seed.

Pink bollworm damage is not limited to the yield and quality of lint. The crop of seed is correspondingly reduced, and what seed is obtained is of light weight and poor grade.

There is a small mite that is a natural parasite of the larva, but this country has depended on non-cotton zones and clean-up measures to control the insect's spread.

The department of agriculture has developed a portable gin trash machine which separates bollworm larva and is the best current method for detecting the presence of the pest.

New York—(P)—Interest in bonds lagged today and price movements in most categories were indecisive.

Farmers are Urged To Process Produce

Atlanta—(F)— Processing farm products in rural districts is part of Georgia's plan to aid agriculture.

It is the next big objective in the combined drive of the State College of Agriculture, Georgia Federation of Women's clubs and the Georgia Bankers' association.

Processing farm products includes canning, curing, assembling, grading, packing, and shipping. The direct result, say leaders of the movement, is better prices for the products and the relief of unemployment throughout the agricultural districts.
